WASHINGTON rec'd farm as payment for debt. Original farm about 600 acres.

House no longer stands but one photo exists (glossy) and one newspaper acct with picture. Neither photo shows front elevation but would guess it to be a three bay house - door end or off-center. The roof has a rather ~~pitched~~ gradual rake with enough ~~walk~~ height to allow an attic (loft) bedroom. One end elevation (E?) was two bays (window) and two windows at the 2nd level. The rear wall appears to be ~~about~~ three bays c door at center. The rear door + window crowns were almost flush with the roof eave cornice. The front may have had a recessed porch - that is to say the actual mass could actually have had a cat slide roof but with the front rake extending down to form a porch.

Only the chimney cap is visible in both pictures and that appears
