DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Murley's Branch School is located on Williams Road near Rush, in Allegany County.

Murley's Branch School is a one story, three bay wide frame structure that has been covered with novelty siding. The building rests on a low stone foundation and has a tin covered gable roof with a wide soffit. Small circular ventilators are located in the gable ends. The main entrance is located on the east facade and features a door with five horizontal panels, original hardware, and a transom light. The windows are covered with a combination of boards and paneled shutters.

Although the Murley's Branch School is in deteriorated condition it nevertheless retains much of its original fabric and appearance.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Murley's Branch School is believed to have been constructed circa 1875 as a one room public school house for the local community of Rush. The curriculum of the school was mainly restricted to the basic subjects of reading, writing and arithmetic. In 1849 a new state law went into effect, which provided for the decentralization of schools.¹ Insufficient financial support hurt the system in its early years, but by 1881 every community in the county had at least a public school.²

"The first schools in the area of Flintstone and Rush were subscription schools, where public money was used to pay tuition for the poor."³ After these schools came the one room public school which was a step between the subscription and consolidated schools.⁴

The school remains an architectural reminder of a way of education once found in Allegany County.
