Late Woodland/Contact Periods

Shawnee Old Fields Village Site

(King Opessa's Town, Old Town, South Branch Site)

Southeast of Cumberland

Cumberland

Private

This large village site, long collected by local artifact hunters, was investigated in 1974, revealing Late Woodland and Contact period artifacts. An area between the site itself and the river's edge may be the location of a number of short-term camps, dispersed horticulturalist dwelling units, or both.

The village is believed to have been the home of King Opessa, a Shawnee leader who accepted and protected runaway slaves and convicts. The site represents the first confirmed archeological manifestation of the several historically documented Shawnee villages in Maryland.
