DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Fagen house is two stories high, three bays wide by one bay deep, and faces south. A one-story gabled ell with an exterior end chimney extends from the eastern side of the north (rear) wall.

The house's form is typical of 19th-century vernacular housing in Maryland: on the south facade, the centrally-located doorway is flanked on either side by a sash window, with three sash windows on the second story, aligned over the first-floor openings. Windows have six lights over six. A pedimented surround has been added to the entrance, which is sheltered by a recent one-bay gabled porch. The house is clad in aluminum siding, with asphalt shingles covering its gable roof. An interior brick chimney rises from the east gable, which is pierced by a single 6/6 sash on each story.
