DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Clark House is located on the southern side of Fireclay Road northwest of Mount Savage. The house is a square, two story structure. A small one story addition abuts the southern-facing facade. Adjoining the southeastern corner of the addition is a one story structure which is an early outbuilding. To the southwest of the dwelling is a one story springhouse.

The original portion of the dwelling is two stories tall, two bays wide on the facade, and two bays deep. Walls are constructed of vertical planks which are covered with insul brick siding. The owner states that the cinderblocks beneath the dwelling and the addition replaced a deteriorating stone foundation. The gabled roof is covered with tarpaper.

The owner states that the existing 3/1 sashes replaced original "tall" windows and that an entrance on the eastern elevation was added recently. The original entrance on the facade has been obscured by the addition.

The one story addition abutting the facade of the dwelling is of frame construction and is covered with insul brick siding. The gabled roof is covered with tarpaper. A small hip roofed porch is on the southern-facing facade of the addition. Windows are 3/1 sashes which appear to have replaced earlier windows. An exterior cinderblock chimney is on the facade.

A one story outbuilding adjoining the southeastern corner of the addition is of frame construction with horizontal flushboards covered with insul brick siding. It rests on a high rubble stone foundation. The gabled roof is covered with tarpaper. Windows of the outbuilding are 3/1 sashes. An entrance is located on the western-facing facade of the structure.

A springhouse to the southwest of the dwelling is a one story frame structure with horizontal flushboards covered with insul brick siding. The gabled roof is covered with tarpaper. It rests on a high rubble stone foundation with exposed log sills. An entrance with a two panel door is located in the center of the western-facing facade.

The remains of pig pens and the foundations of other buildings, including a recently dismantled log barn, are also located on this property. (for a description of the barn see AL-V-A-123)
