Sollers M.E. Church
Bristol Landing
Access:Public

1874

Sollers M.E. Church stood 34ft. from the intersection of Wrighton and Pindell Roads. The white weatherboard building faced north. The building measured 18' across the front and was 24' in depth. The entranceway was composed of two steps leading to a six-paneled oak door surmounted by a tinted glass arc. Above the arc was an inset table which read: Sollers M.E. Church, Built 1874- Rebuilt 1913. The structure was destroyed in October of 1979. They are erecting a new church on this site.

Sollers U.M. Church originally belonged to a Methodist minister. Tradition tells that this man was the Rev. John Cambell, an A.M.E. minister (I believe this can be verified). The church later passed into the hands of an M.E. minister... the Rev. Joseph Sollers. Sollers was pastor of this church in 1877. Sollers is situated less than a half mile from the Pautuxent River. This area was heavily agricultural at the close of the Civil War. The Landing, now closed (by heavy silting), was a port for the transportation of tobacco. Although there are many black Methodist churches in southern Anne Arundel County, this site is the closest to the river and reflects the economic impact of transportation on the lives of black farm and boat workers.
