DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
Owned by W. S. Weedon in the mid 19th Century this house was the center of a large farm which has since evolved into Holly Beach Farm. The house has been altered extensively. The exterior is sheathed in unpainted wood shingle. The windows all have 6/6 pane sashes and shutters. It is constructed in three parts, each 2 stories high with an A roof. They are situated end to end. The front elevation, facing North, is symmetrical. The center section, probably the oldest part of the house, is three bays long and has a brick chimney at each end. The front door, located in the center bay, is sheltered by a small cantilevered and bracketed shed roof. The dormer windows are an unusual feature of the house. There are 5 along the North elevation of the house. Rather than being located entirely in the roof they are set much lower. The bottom half is actually in the wall. The house has the appearance at first glance of a gambrel-roofed structure. Most of the original interior furnishings have been replaced or modified.
