DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Terrell House is a one and one half storey frame cottage with an enclosed porch encircling three views. The plan is a central block with one wing constructed on a stone foundation. The roof is gabled with dormers placed symmetrically on each end. The timber that was used to construct and finish the interior of the house was derived from the old Bay Highlands Hotel.

The Terrell House is located in Highland Beach, Maryland on a block that is bounded by Bay Avenue to the north, Wayman Avenue on the east, Douglass Avenue on the south and Langston Avenue to the west. Although, the house has a stone foundation, it is entered by a series of steps that have been constructed in order to compensate for the relatively steep slope of the lot. Vegetation is dense consisting of large trees, shrubs and grasses. The principal entrance on the eastern view faces the Chesapeake Bay.

The cottage is accented by the extensive porch which has been enclosed with aluminum and glass. The windows are double hung with several lights whose trim is painted a contrasting color to the shingled siding.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Please see "Highland Beach Settlement" survey form.

Highland Beach, Maryland is a historic black town that was founded by the son of Frederick Douglass. The town was conceived by Haley R. Douglass in the late nineteenth century to be a resort community for prominent blacks. Highland Beach is a unique existing reminder of town planning and architectural history as it relates to vernacular and high style design as exhibited by black people. Most of the architecture in Highland Beach is located on the original sites and building expansions were performed within a ten to fifteen year time frame. This provides us with a concise history of design, space planning, and architecture in a homogeneous, extant community.

All of the cottages that were constructed prior to 1930 are important elements related to town planning and design. It is important that these houses retain their originality in terms of plan design, lot orientation, interior decoration, and architectural aesthetics in order to preserve the concept of space and the dynamics of community development in this historic black town.

The Terrell House was once the summer home of two prominent black leaders: Judge Terrell and Mary Church Terrell who was an advisor to President Theodore Roosevelt. Architecturally it is significant in this development especially with respect to its proximity to Frederick Douglass' house (next door) and the material elements that were used to define the form of the structure.
