Notable features:

Numbers 107-109 have shed roofs, 2½ story. These could be saved as they face Callender Street. They are possibly quite old; set on shallow lots.

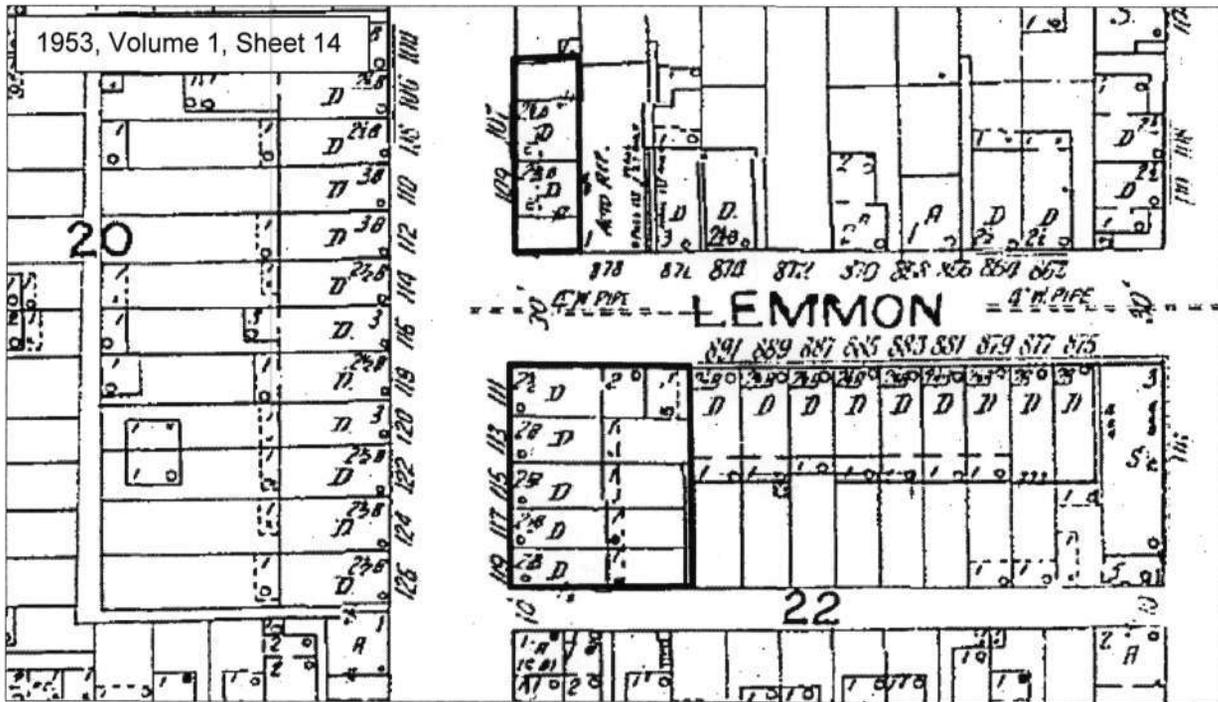

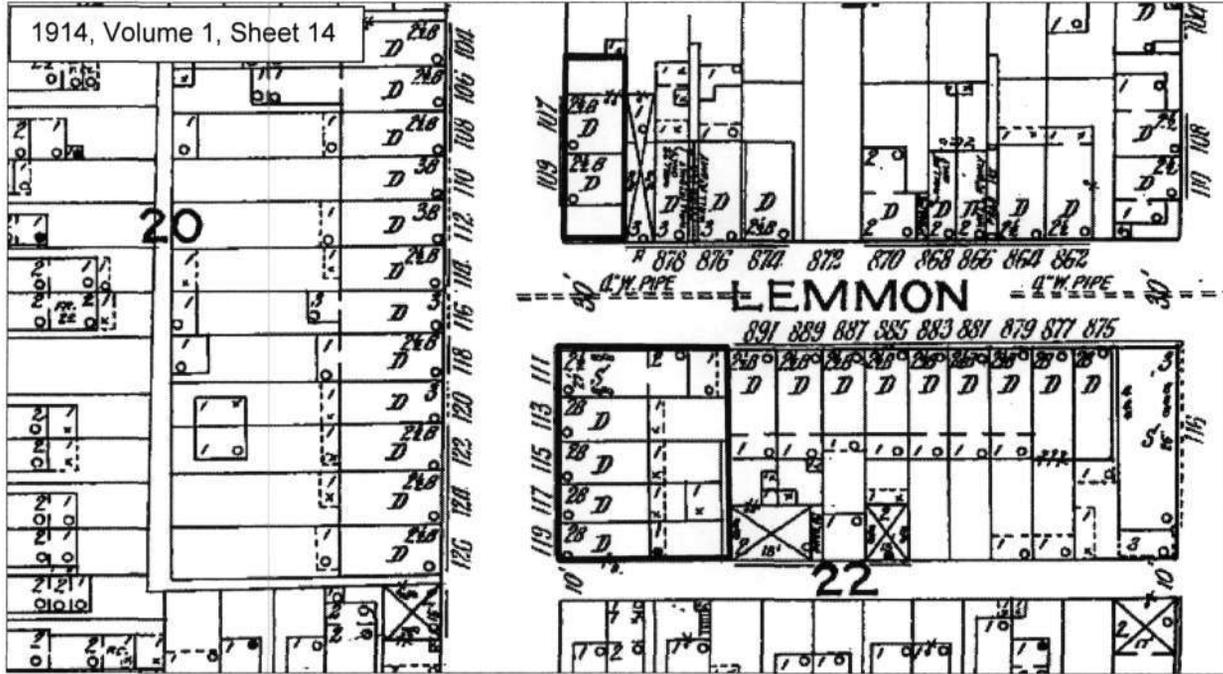

Numbers 111-119 have tall steps and basements. Their condition is not good, but they enclose Callender Street.

Environmental context:

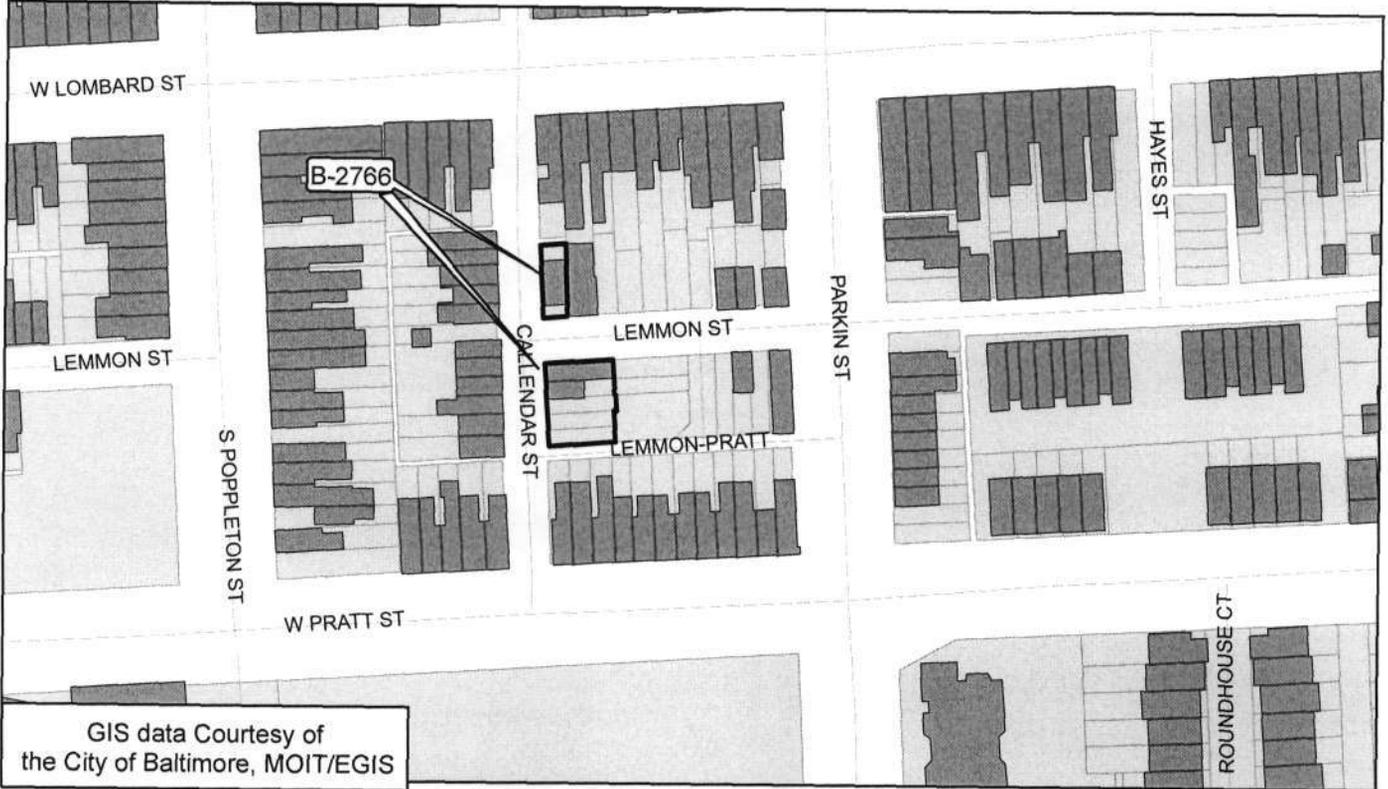

Number 111 is vacant. These tiny houses, with those facing, create a pleasant, quiet little street between two very busy and noisy streets. If parking and some green could be provided on Lemmon Street, these could be viable for single people and couples. An old and very independent lady lives in number 107 now.
