The north side of Cross St. east of Riverside Ave. is improved by a variety of building types. The earliest houses on the block, a group of two story plus attic, two bay wide brick houses built by several different builders in the 1840's and early 1850's, is located in the middle of the block at 430-450 E. Cross St. To the east of this group of houses, there is a small, one story, gable-roofed brick church, built in 1873 for the congregation of the Sailors' Union Bethel, a group of seamen who had formerly worshipped on the William Penn, an old clipper ship berthed at the Lee St. wharf. At the far eastern end of the block, near Covington St., there are several two and three story, simple brick structures built in the 1870's or earlier, which were formerly owned by the Rossmarck Brewery which operated a tavern on the site. At the western end of the block, near Riverside Ave., there are two distinct groups of late Victorian-style houses. The first group, 402-408 E. Cross St., is a group of two story, three bay wide brick houses with shed roofs and bracketed cornices, built by James F. Morgan in the late 1880's as part of his development of the adjoining section of Riverside Ave. At 410-420 E. Cross St. there is a row of two story, two bay wide brown brick houses with shed roofs and simple sheet metal bracketed cornices, built by Walter Hampson in 1907. This latter group, along with similar rows built by Hampson directly north of this row on Grindall and Hamburg Streets, are the last houses to be built in the Federal Hill area.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This small two story brick building with sloping shed roof and false front was built more or less contemporaneously with the adjoining Sailors's Bethel Church. It is currently being restored.

The house is two stories in height, about 14' wide, and occupies a lot 80' deep. The main house is four bays deep with a one story high, two bay deep, full width frame addition followed by a narrower one story high, two bay deep frame addition. The house is constructed in running bond. The shed roof slopes down from the east side of the house to the west side of the house, along the full length of the structure. There is a false front, however, with a flat, brick-dentiled cornice. There is a covered single chimney located along the east side of the house and a rear end chimney located at the north end of the main house.

The door and window openings have splayed brick lintels but the stretchers are set almost vertically. The first floor sills are brick headers; the second floor sills are wood. All of the window openings are filled with 1/1 double hung sash. There is a horizontally paneled door set beneath a single light transom. The transom area, however, is filled in with a wood panel. The house sits on a low basement, the entrance being reached by three brick steps.
