Located in the vicinity of Texas, Md is an abandoned limestone quarry. This quarry is situated south of Church Lane, near the east side of the Northern Central Railroad line. The quarry is presently not in use, but was an active source of limestone for limeburning kilns located nearby. This property is believed to have been one of the quarries of William Lindsay, an important producer of burnt lime from approximately 1887-1924.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Lindsay's quarry, located in the vicinity of Texas, Md. played a significant role in the industry which was most important in the area in both the 1800's and the early 1900's. This quarry is one of several located near the Northern Central Railway line and can be seen as part of several extant examples of the lime-burning industry in Baltimore County.
