DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Obrick House is of wood construction, two storeys in height, three bays in width, with a two bay rear (or north) wing behind the east bay. Narrow porches less than 4 feet in width, are at both the first and second floor levels, entirely within the limits of the main roof.

The southwest (hereinafter referred to as the south) front wall is stuccoed, but all other walls are weatherboarded. Eave and rake fascias are scalloped.

Windows are 6/6. Doors are of four un moulded panels, or of vertical boards, uniform in width. Immediately inside the centered front door, the straight stair rises, between partitions, to the second floor. A room flanks the center stair on each side, and there is no center hall through the house. The rear wing is a single room, with a modern fireplace. The second floor plan is similar to the first.

In the unfinished attic, slim log rafters terminate against a ridge board. The entire roof structure is of a uniform character. A small portion of the mainhouse roof, visible within the attic of the wing, is sheathed, but has never been shingled, suggesting that both sections were built at the same time.

The stone walled cellar extends under the whole house, with no visible joints indicating additions. The single-flue chimneys of the front section are not expressed in the cellar, but the rear chimney has a stone foundation projecting from the cellar wall. First floor joists are log.

The house is said to be of log construction, but the wall structural members were described as being vertical, 1 1/2 to 2 feet apart. Rough sawn studs with sawn or hewn corner and intermediate posts, together with the log first floor joists and log rafters, have probably been interpreted as log construction.

As there are no fireplaces indicated, the house probably dates from the third quarter of the 19th century, at the earliest, with very traditional form and detailing. Identification of exterior wall framing -- balleen or post-and-beam -- could further establish a conjectured date.

The house measures approximately 30 feet long by 16 feet deep, with the rear wing being approximately 16 by 18.

James T. Wollen, Jr.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE
This house is located on what was lot 81. The land was purchased in the 1782 auction by Daniel Shaw and a certificate of survey and patent issued. The owner of the property in the latter part of the 19th century was Elihu Cuddy. There were several other members of this family in this area, Cold Comfort Farm, belonging to the Cuddy family and on the 1850 and 1877 maps another Cuddy place is shown east of Wesley Chapel almost to McComas Road. Elihu Cuddy sold the property in 1898 to Robert A. Nelson. (-2) At that time, it was known as McDugol's lot, but the origin of this name is not known. The 1877 map of Baltimore County does not show this structure. It seems reasonable that the house was built by Cuddy between 1877 and 1898. References : <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1.
