

Clara Lee House
Southwest side of Western Run
Rd. between Western Rd. &
Gerber Lane
Not accessible
Mid-nineteenth century

This house probably dates from just after the Civil War, for it is typical of the houses built in rural areas for recently freed slaves. The land was sold to Benjamin Lee by Thomas C. Bosley in 1872 for $100, with the provision that Lee was not to sell any liquor on the premises.

The dwelling of Benjamin Lee is shown on the 1877 Atlas of Baltimore County and both the 1876 and 1896 tax assessments indicate that Lee had improved the land by that time. The property has remained in the family ever since.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Clara Lee's house, probably dating from just after the Civil War, faces a small side road to the northwest, off of Western Run Road. It is two storeys in height, two bays in length, with a small shed-roofed one-storey rear wing. The principal entrance is in the east bay of the northwest front; first storey windows are 6/6; each northerly second storey window is a single six-light sash but the east end windows of both storeys are 6/6. A one-storey shed-roofed porch extends across the north front. A single-flue brick chimney rises internally centered on the west gable. Exterior walls are covered with asbestos shingles.

The interior of this house was not examined.
