DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
The Klingmeyer House is a two and one-half storey house of frame construction, facing south, five bays in length, with a two bay, two storey rear wing extending north from the west end, of contemporaneous construction. Roofs are gabled, and an interior end chimney rises from the north and west gables; the east chimney rises between the center hall and the easterly rooms. A one storey hipped roof porch extends across the south front, and a small one storey porch shelters the west door of the rear wing. Frame construction of recent vintage fills the angle formed by the main house and its rear wing. Exterior walls are covered with German siding, but the gables and the walls of the two dormer windows are covered with fancy-butt shingles. The cornice, which extends horizontally across the gable ends, and up the roof rakes, is supported by bold jóg-sawn brackets. Windows are 2/2; louvred blinds are missing. Windows in the dormers are tripled, the center one being wider and taller than the flanking ones. In the center hall, the principal staircase rises, with landings, to the second floor. The moulded handrail is supported by large newels, each topped with a sphere; upper newels have drop finials; the square balusters, terminating on the closed stringer, are boldly chamfered. The space beneath the stair is enclosed with square paneling. All stairwork is of chestnut, with its original natural finish. A single room flanks the center hall. Four panel doors and their associated trim are of chestnut. The easterly chimney has been removed in the first and second storeys; it was a single flue, for stoves. The westerly room of the first storey has a small fireplace. The rear wing was the original kitchen; in the first storey, a very large fireplace is surrounded by an ornamental wood mantel of the late 19th century; rebates indicate the space could be closed with doors. A small window lights the fireplace, which was, probably, a fireproof enclosure for a stove, originally, which could be closed off when desired (see description of summer kitchen below). An enclosed back stair rises from the kitchen to the second, and thence to the third floors. The second floor plan is similar, and trim is similar but simpler. The third floor is roughly finished, including plastered walls. The easterly chimney now stops just above the third floor level, its masonry apparently not supported on the floor. The stone walled cellar extends under the entire original portion of the house. Another fireplace is in the westerly chimney. Immediately north of the house is a small, one storey frame summer kitchen with a massive stone chimney at its north end, providing a stone fireplace within. West of the summer kitchen is a small gabled spring house, one very short storey in height. The Klingmeyer House is of the very late 19th century, related to the so-called Queen Anne style of the day.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE
This is a two and a half storey frame house of very late 19th century construction. This house is located on a portion of lot 79 which was patented by Benjamin and Joshua Meridith. (-1) It was sold by the Merediths to Samuel Bosley in 1806 (-2) who died in 1824. The land was sold by his heirs to Benjamin Bosley in 1860. (-3) Benjamin's widow, Marian Bosley, sold the property to Edwin D. Bosley in 1883. (-4) Bosley then sold a small piece of his property in 1884 (-5) but retained the rest until 1908. (-6) He would seem to be the logical builder of this structure. The house is not on the 1877 map. The present owners are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klingmeyer. References: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1.
