Description of Property and Justification: (Please attach map and photo)

The two-story, cross-gable-roof dwelling is three-bays wide, three-bays deep, weather-boarded, and wood framed. The vernacular style residence stands on a continuous concrete block foundation. A roof with asphalt shingles shelters the house. A shed roof dormer pierces the façade side of the roof. The fenestration consists of 2/2 double-hung, wood sash windows. Ornamental details include a metal dovecote, a compass arch window in the façade gable, an offset, exterior brick chimney stack on the west elevation, and a Tuscan order, half-hipped roof front porch. Also on the property, a one-story, frame, gable roof outbuilding stands at the rear of the home lot.

Although this dwelling and outbuilding meet the NRHP age criterion (50 years old or older), they do not meet any of the other NRHP criteria for listing in the register. They do not embody distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction. They do not possess distinctive architectural values. They are not located in any known historic district. The potential to obtain information important in prehistory or history from the house does not exist. The house is not NRHP-eligible under Criterion D. They are recommended as not eligible for listing under NRHP Criteria A, B, C, or D.

This resource does not possess a significant relation to major historical trends at the national, state, or local level. It is

Early 20th century

This typical three-bay by two-bay two-story frame farmhouse includes an unfenestrated central cross-gable and a two story kitchen addition to the east. The kitchen's east gable end is heated by a stove flue. This section's north side is lighted by a single window in the first floor, and two in the second floor.

The main house is heated by a northern stove flue. A screened porch covers the west facade. Regular narrow weatherboards sheath the building. Plain boards frame the 2/2 and 6/6 sash windows.
