DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Marydel School is located on the northwest side of Maryland Route 311 in Marydel, Caroline County.

The school is built in a cross shape with a small service addition in the northwest corner of the cross. The structure is frame on a brick foundation and is covered with a composite siding. The main facade (east elevation) has an entrance in the projecting section with a modern one story porch with a gable roof and metal supports and railings. The doorway has sidelights and transom. In the gable of the projection is a pointed arch ventilator. The two wings both have a row of three windows with large 9/9 pane sash. The south gable end has no openings, but the north gable has pointed arch windows. The shed addition is of concrete block and has a brick chimney. The roof is shingle and there are shaped rafter ends on an ornamental plate.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Marydel school was probably built during the first quarter of the twentieth century. Its form is very similar to the Colored School, Denton and other public schools in Caroline County. The structure is the visible reminder of the growth of public education in Caroline County. It also serves as a community hall which is a good adaptive use for such structures.
