CAR-288

The Chambers Park Log Cabin in Federalsburg, Maryland is a one-story log cabin with six open air windows covered by white shutters. The log cabin is a one-room building with an asphalt shingle roof. Original wood shingles are underneath the asphalt shingles. Inside the log cabin is a fireplace. The interior and exterior walls are made of logs. Originally, there was a brick chimney, and a rear entrance to the log cabin. However, in 1993, the brick chimney was removed because it was leaning and became a hazard. In replacing the brick chimney with a stone chimney, the rear entrance to the log cabin was permanently closed. The foundation of the log cabin is concrete with a concrete floor inside. Electricity (electric lights) are also available inside the log cabin. The entrance door is painted white and made of wood boards. A padlock secures the door. The building is 36 x 24 square feet.

The log cabin is located inside Chambers Park. Trees surround the log cabin and recreational equipment for small children is located within fifty feet of the cabin. Chambers Park is located near the downtown business district, and includes two little league baseball fields and several small structures for carnivals. The park was a gift to the Town by a former mayor, Thomas H. Chambers. He donated the land and a lake (also in the park and known as Chambers Lake) to the Town in 1922. Mr. Chambers was Mayor of Federalsburg from 1915 to 1947.

The log cabin in Chambers Park was constructed in 1936 by the National Youth Administration, and was part of President Roosevelt's New Deal Program for stimulating the economy and ending the Great Depression. The National Youth Administration (NYA) was one of several alphabet relief programs for putting people, especially the young, to work in the summer of 1937. While the NYA constructed the log cabin, another recovery alphabet program, the Works Progress Administration (WPA), developed the rest of the park and the lake. Private funds were raised for the playground equipment by the Town and Mayor Chambers.

During the late 1930's and until around 1970, the log cabin, Chambers Lake, and Chambers Park provided many youth and adults with a place to swim, play, and other forms of general recreation. After 1970, as more families became mobile, vacation-oriented and sought other leisure time type activities, Chambers Lake was abandoned as a favorite swimming and picnic area. However, the log cabin and park continued to be active until the late 1970's on a daily basis for small children to play.

From the late 1930's until the late 1960's, the log cabin was used by the Boy Scouts for their monthly meetings, by church groups, by families for picnics, birthday parties, and reunions, and for a variety of community functions that included fireman's carnivals, parades into the park, and children's games.

In the 1940's, 1950's, and early 1960's, two women were normally employed by the Town during the summer season to supervise recreational activities for children in Chambers Park. The log cabin was used for indoor games. Lunches, usually sandwiches and soda drinks, were served in the cabin on a daily basis. Birthday parties, church socials, family reunions, and civic club meetings were often held on a regular basis at or in the log cabin. In the late 1960's, public interest in the log cabin declined. By the late 1980's, the log cabin had fallen into disrepair and was described by many local residents as dilapidated. Graffiti inside the cabin, also detracted from the looks of the building and contributed to its decline in use by various groups.

In 1993, the Mayor and Council of Federalsburg began a plan to restore the log cabin. Monies were spent to replace the leaning gravity burdened brick chimney with a stone chimney. The rear entranceway into the cabin was also sealed off. Over the years, the wood-shingled roof was replaced by an asphalt-shingled roof, and the wooden shutters covering the windows have been replaced. These are the only structural modifications that have been completed to alter the original looks of the log cabin.

The log cabin was built in 1937 using a design plan from the National Youth Administration, which built the log cabin, using local carpenters and laborers. The design for the log cabin was selected because of its location in a wooded, rural park setting adjacent to a lake.

The log cabin also reflected the style of housing and architecture prevalent in Federalsburg, when the Town was founded in 1779. This style of architecture was also popular in Federalsburg before 1850. The log cabin design used by the NYA for the log cabin built in Chambers Park was also a popular design used by the Civilian Conservation Corporation (CCC) in parks and rural areas across the nation in the 1930's. This once common structure is now rare as many parks and playgrounds have been remodeled since the 1960's.

Restoration planned for old log cabin

By LEON FUKSMAN
Times-Dorchester Bureau

FEDERALSBURG — Mayor John Phillips knows the bowed chimney of the historic log cabin in Federalsburg's Chambers Park won't be around as long as the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

That's why he is planning a $4,000 to $5,000 renovation project that will, starting in October, rebuild the chimney as part of a larger plan to restore the boarded-up log cabin built during President Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

"The chimney and the rest of the cabin is deteriorating to the point of becoming an eyesore," said Phillips. The cabin, which is surrounded by a playground, located in a wooded area, is on the verge of collapsing.

Today the dilapidated log cabin is covered with graffiti and partially closed off by barrier tape. Phillips said he hopes to transform the cabin to the condition of its heyday, when it was a community center used for Boy Scout meetings and birthday celebrations.

"Kids that are now adults here remember the parties at the cabin, and when you're a kid that's a big thing," Town Manager Richard Colburn said.

One of those children, now an adult, is Federalsburg native Marvin Smith. He's one of few people in Federalsburg who knows the cabin was built by Roosevelt's National Youth Administration between 1937 and 1938.

Smith said the cabin was built for Boy Scouts, as an alternative to holding meetings on street corners in Federalsburg. Eventually, Smith said, the Boy Scouts took their meetings to Federalsburg's volunteer fire company, allowing the cabin to be used for community functions.

About a decade ago, the cabin was boarded up and closed to the public. Ever since, curious residents such as Holly Sappington, who brings her daughter, Morgan, to the park every week, have wondered what was inside the historic cabin.

This week's visit to the park made Sappington even more inquisitive. "I've been wanting to know why that police tape is there. All along, I've been wanting to know what was inside of there," she said.

Sappington is in favor of restoring the cabin and its gravity-burdened chimney, which she knows has a story, even if it's not quite as well known as the Leaning Tower of Pisa.
