This modest brick bank building, dates from 1912 and utilizes an array of classical features to create an air of formality and solidity. The symmetrical front façade is divided into three bays with the entrance in the central bay. The fully-glazed, wood entry doors are contained within an arched opening the top of which is filled by a fanlight. Flanking the entrance and separating the bays are pairs of engaged Tuscan Doric columns standing on stone plinths. The columns support a pedimented gable with a broken entablature. The raking cornices were originally capped with terracotta tiles that are now missing.

The two flanking bays each contain a single window opening. These openings contain a single nine-over-nine double-hung sash and are spanned by rusticated flat arches. The cornice of the central bay's entablature extends across, and forms a cap for, the low parapets of the side bays. The brickwork at the building's front corners has been articulated to mimic quoining.

An alarm system is prominently displayed in the tympanum of the central bay, occupying the space below the raking cornices and above the doorway arch.
