

CAR-92
Boyd Building
Greensboro
Private

Circa 1793

Lot 15 in Greensboro, located on the southwest corner of Main Street and Sunset Avenue, was sold in 1793 to Nehemiah Townsend, Inn Keeper. Possibly the remaining portion of the Boyd building dates from Townsend's period. The brick building is covered with stucco and now used as a store. It appears to have been a 3 bay long, two-story building with a two bay long one-story wing, the latter having been removed when the Highway Department widened Sunset Avenue about 1950.

The form of the house is vernacular and is related to the form of the Peter Harrington House. Its former addition created a house which was similar to Bullock Brick House as it appeared around the turn of the century.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Boyd Building is one of Greensboro's early vernacular buildings. It is located on the southwest corner of Main Street and Sunset Avenue, and is a three bay long, two story, brick building which has been covered with stucco.

Across its first story facade is an awning protecting the store window and two doors. The second story windows appear to be closer to the original, although the sills have been replaced when the stucco was applied. On the south end of the 'A' roof is a brick chimney without stucco.

Its north gable has a single window with awning in the attic, with a door on the second story and a wood stair thereto. On the first story is a picture window. One interesting feature of the building which appears to be original is located at attic floor level. It appears to be the end of a girder protruding enough for insertion of a pin, much the way interior framing is tied together. This one feature probably is an indication of the building being two rooms deep.

At one time there was a one story addition on the north gable with an extension from its back along Sunset Avenue. This was torn down supposedly for safety reasons.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Boyd Building appears to be one of Greensboro's first dwellings and may be contemporary with the Peter Harrington House and the David Whiting House. For this reason it would be a good building to research to gain a better knowledge of the growth of Greensboro.
