CARR-194 Dr. Luther Kemp House

3428 Uniontown Road is part of the property sold by Earhart Cover to Martin Billmyer in 1811. Billmyer erected a log house on the property that is listed in the 1837 tax assessment. During the late nineteenth century, the lot had three small tenements on it. In 1908, these were torn down and the present house built on its site by Dr. Luther Kemp. The house is an excellent example of early twentieth century domestic architecture. The carry-over of elements from the late Victorian period, such as the projecting bays, pedimented gables, and wrap-around porch provide the overall visual character of the house. However, a brand new material in the form of rusticated concrete block, had been introduced to Uniontown with the construction of this house. The concrete blocks for the house were made by two Uniontown residents, Buck Haines and Frank Sullivan, who worked from pre-cast molds. The blocks were used in a variety of ways for ornamental effects in this house, including the cast designed blocks used as a frieze beneath the eaves. The house was designed and built by Grant

Kauffman, Architect and Builder, of New Windsor.
