CARR-220 William Thomas House
3300 Uniontown Road

The other lot purchased by the Jones family in 1857 was 3300 Uniontown Road. Martin Billmyer had purchased this lot in 1816 from the heirs of Earhart Cover. From the documentary records, it does not appear likely that Billmyer constructed improvements on this lot, even though the existing house contains architectural features, such as the nine-over-six pane sash windows, that are generally considered early nineteenth century characteristics. The prices recorded in the land records indicate that the Jones family substantially improved the property. They purchased the two lots (3216 and 3300 Uniontown Road) for $274 in 1857 and in 1862, they sold 3300 Uniontown Road for $765 to William Thomas. On the 1862 Martenet's Map, Thomas is listed as residing and operating a shoemaker's shop on the property. The design of the house resembles the structures at 3429 and 3435 Uniontown Road with its long horizontal profile and widely spaced, five-bay symmetrical main facade. It is one of the few houses in Uniontown that still retains the curvilinear bargeboard ornamentation along the eaves of the main facade and the scroll design along the gable ends. The weatherboard exterior with cornerboards and the full-length porch with a bracket cornice are other mid-nineteenth century characteristics of the building.
