

30 EAST GREEN STREET

This is one of the many houses built by the Case (Kaes, Kase) family in Lynch's Addition to Westminster; like the others it fronts the south side of East Green Street across from the Catholic Cemetery in the City. This building is rather more conventional in form and in detail than the others. It consists of two sections, a five bay by two bay gabled roof front section, and a full length addition to the rear. The principal facade consists of five bays regularly spaced on two floors; the windows (all five bays on the second floor and the eastern most and two western most bays on the ground floor) are double-hung sash glass and aluminum storm windows.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is one of the many houses built by the Case (Kaes, Kase) family in Lynch's Addition to Westminster; like the others it fronts the south side of East Green Street across from the Catholic Cemetery in the City.

This building is rather more conventional in form and in detail than the others. It consists of two sections, a five bay by two bay gabled roof front section, and a full length addition to the rear. The principal facade consists of five bays regularly spaced on two floors; the windows (all five bays on the second floor and the eastern most and two western most bays on the ground floor) are double-hung sash glass and aluminum storm windows. The two entrance doors (to the two apartments) are twin; they are early 20th century glass and wood doors simply enframed below very narrow rectangular transoms. Very simple trim marks the eaves as the clapboard wall moves into the rolled tin covered roof. A modern porch separates the house from the sidewalk; the porch is supported by patterned cinder blocks and its cast iron railings support a shingled pent roof.

Both east and west ends of the roof are pierced by flat capped brick furnace flues which rise flush with the inside walls. The east facade has two pairs of double-hung sash glass and aluminum storm windows on the ground floor and one pair too the south on the second floor. Below the chimney is a small attic window within the gable. The extension has single glass and aluminum storm windows placed towards the south one per floor. The east facade is identical but is sheltered by a shed roofed porch to the west; the porch is supported by turned wooden posts is approached by a single flight of wooden steps rising from the sidewalk on Green Street.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The history of number 30 East Green Street goes back to the late 1860's, when Edward Lynch was laying out this part of town as "Lynch's Addition to Westminster". On July 18, 1868 he sold lot 6, our property, to Francis Kase for $200 (Carroll County Deed Book 36, Page 131). Several other members of the Case (or Kaes) family had purchased neighboring lots about the same time. Case must have built his house soon after purchasing the lot, as it is clearly noted on the 1876 plat of the City, and is listed in the 1881 City Directory. However, Case must have built the property as rental, as the directory lists one Henry Hahn as living the . Case kept title until January 31, 1898 when he sold to C. Buckingham for $1150 (86/164). Buckingham ran into financial trouble and Samuel C. Stoner sold the place to Edward C. Yingling on April 10, 1916 for $1605 (128/552). The house has stayed in the Yingling family ever since, through a variety of deeds (132/552, 133/84, 152/214, 212/117); the present owner took title on December 23, 1952.
