DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This 2 1/2 story, gable-roofed double house is four bays wide by one bay deep with an ell to the rear, and faces north. Present siding is asbestos shingle; asphalt shingles cover the roof of the front section, while the ell has a standing-seam metal roof.

On the principal (north) facade, both of the central bays are occupied by doorways, with a 2/2 sash window in each of the outlying bays. Four 2/2 sash are arrayed across the second story, aligned directly above the first-floor openings. A one-story, shed-roofed porch spans the facade, and features turned posts and a horizontal railing. The ground on which the house is built slopes downward from east to west, so the west end of the porch is considerably above grade. An interior brick chimney rises from the forward slope of the gable roof between the two central bays, contributing to the visual separation of the two sections of the house. The western section of the house is notably wider than the eastern.

The east gable facade has a single 2/2 sash window centrally located on each story, and a four-pane casement lighting the attic. A two-story, two bay ell extends to the rear, its east wall continuous with that of the main section. A doorway punctuates the junction of the main block and the ell.

A small square frame outbuilding clad in novelty siding is located on the south-east, close to the house; its pyramid roof is covered with corrugated metal, and features a louvered cupola at the apex.
