located where old maps show the "Bells Head Inn" at the railroad crossing of the original ~~Baltimore~~<sup>Philadelphia</sup> and Washington line (later the Pennsylvania and now the Penn Central Railroad), this may have a few internal remnants of the early hostel. Its character has been destroyed long ago.

Once a stopping-off point for early travelers when the rail line came into Elkhart a few feet away.

Attn: Mr. Orlando Ridout

Dear Sirs:

Inclosed please find 2 booklets on property of historical value here in Cecil County. The one at 310 North Street, Elkton is where Martha Rudolph (one of the oldest families in Cecil County) married Rev. Wm. Torbert. It is log and crude for that day.

Also it served as the Free Resident Minster's Church house - Methodist Church for Elkton on East High St., then known as Back Street.

Before long it may be torn down. Therefore I am very much interested in moving it to the Church property and make a tourist attraction of this building.

Kindly reply by mail. Thank you.
