DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Facing Bohemia Avenue at Third Street is another store building, the front half being frame covered with asbestos shingle and the rear being built of concrete block, painted white.

Its facade has an inset door, raised above the street by two steps, flanked by two large windows. To the north are adjoining door and window, with a third door in a leanto addition. On the second story are five windows with 6/6 sash, one of which retains original louvered shutters.

At the bottom of the 'A' roof, the ends of the rafters are exposed. It appears to be a late 19th century store building which was doubled in size in the twentieth century.

The building would be improved if shutters were replaced on the second story windows and an awning or porch were built around the over-large windows.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Architecturally, the I.O.O.F. building is of interest to the town as a late 19th century structure used for commercial interests. In its present condition and form it speaks of varied uses as well as expansion of commercial enterprise. In general it can be classified as a vernacular commercial structure of which there are several on Bohemia Avenue.

The Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Bohemia Lodge #68, owner of this building, was chartered on February 13, 1850. It is the oldest lodge in Cecil County and the second oldest in the state. Charter members of the lodge were John A. Thompson, J. Mearns, S.I. Cropper, Absalom P. Cropper, Peter Marriner, William P. Cropper and James S. Schultz.

The lodge building has been used as a store for many years. Mr. Bungard kept a grocery store here until the 1940's. Porches extended over the sidewalk giving shelter to customers and produce alike. Behind the store was an open courtyard faced by a small house, a wagon shop, a two story building used as a paint shop for wagons and carriages and a blacksmith shop. When horses provided transportation for men and materials this was a busy place. The second floor of the paint shop was used as a practice hall for the town band. This town band played at local affairs, serenaded important people passing through the Canal, and on occasion, provided music on steamboat excursions. Some who remember the band early in this century, say dancing was difficult to their music, but none criticize the enthusiasm of the band members.

Garages have replaced the wagon shop and blacksmith shop and the area behind the lodge is no longer a center of activity.
