This was a two-story flax mill three bays by two. It was constructed of stone with a low pitch roof which slants from south down to north. The roof is covered with metal and has a box cornice. The facade of the building has two entrances and a one-story front porch adorns this wall. The window sash throughout is six panes over six. All of the frames are pegged and plain in construction.

There is a fireplace in the south west corner which has a corbeled support in the basement. The floors are random width oak.
