DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Cogolin Stone Victorian House is a building whose windows affect the Gothic style. This house is two stories with an attic in height and is three bays long by two deep with a small two story rear wing. The exterior walls have been stuccoed but in places has worn off. The facade has a central bay entrance with a one bay entrance porch. The entrance doorway has a three light transom and the door has circle head panels on it. The gable roof has slate shingles and a centrally located peaked dormer. The roof has a box cornice with crown molding. There is an inside end chimney in each gable wall. Also, on the face of the gable walls at the attic level are a pair of lancet windows. The window sash is 6/6 throughout.

There are several small outbuildings on the property and a medium size bank barn of frame construction with board and batten siding.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This house is one of the few examples of stone structures built in the Victorian era. For the most part the building served as a farm-house. Several residents of the area claim that the rear wing served as a school.
