DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Charles England House was built in two sections. The earliest about 1800 perhaps a little earlier. It was constructed of brick and is two stories in height. The house is two bays long by two bays deep. In the west gable end is a wide chimney used on the first floor as a cooking fireplace, a heating fireplace on the second floor, and used to provide smoke for a smoke house in the garret. The entrance on the facade and rear wall have four light transoms. (The south wall is the facade.) The basement has stone walls which has raised points. One of the cellar windows has louvers. The sash on the first floor is 9/6, second 6/6 and in the attic story it is 2/2. Beside the chimney is a winding staircase (enclosed). In the attic is a smoke house large enough to walk into. It has plastered walls and hoops in the ceiling. The door to the smokehouse has H-hinges and raised panels. On the second floor is a peg-board to hang clothes. The bricks are laid in common bond with no pattern sometimes, 5 rows of stretchers other times 7. Headers found mixed with stretchers but not true flemish bond.

About 1880 a two-story Victorian house was built onto the west gable wall. It is frame with clapboard siding and it has a peaked dormer, inside end chimneys, central staircase and a one-story porch.

The frame for porch on the brick house (section) is beaded.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This farm house has been used as a residence for nearly 170 some years. The land has been in the England family off and on for over 200 years. This house is important architecturally for two reasons. The first is that it is a transitional building and represents the change from the local colonial style to the later Federal styles (vernacular). Also the smoke house in the attic is rather unique. There are others in Cecil County but not in the same condition.
