Boyle ~~HOUSE~~

c. 1855

YEATMAN
The Boyle YEATMAN House appears on the Lake, Griffing, and Stevenson Atlas under that name and Frank Ewing seems to have owned it in 1858 according to Martenet. It is therefore one of the earlier examples of this common two story three bay by one room ~~structure~~ structures.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Boyle-Yeatman House c. 1856 is a 2 story frame house located on the west side of Route 222 just north of the Oakwood Road. The house has a north/south axis with the main facade having an eastern exposure.

The main block is 3 bays across by 2 deep and is supported by a full uncoursed stone foundation. A 20th century 2 story shed addition with block foundation extends across the west side of the structure. The asphalt tile roof is of medium slope with interior stretcher bond brick chimneys in each gable end.

The east (main) facade has a central entrance with a four panel front door. The window fenestration is symmetrical, and all but one 6/6 sash is replaced with single pane sash windows. The older weatherboard siding has been covered with aluminum siding. There are two basement windows that flank the main entrance. The eaves are extended and the soffits sloped.

The south side of the house has 2 windows on each floor with two attic windows that flank the chimney stack. There is also an exterior basement entrance.

The other sides have similar detailing.

The interior has been fairly well remodeled except for the basement which has a brick fireplace with arched opening, and wrought iron fireplace crane. The floor joists are rough hewn with vertical saw marks.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This particular house may be one of the earliest of its type in the general area. It appears on the 1858 Martinet Map with an owner named Frank Ewing. The house itself is not ~~particularly~~ extremely significant other than a few mid 19th century details.
