

This tenant house was owned by both owners of Bohemia Manor in the mid to late 19th Century; Louis McLane in 1858 and William Knight in 1877. The two story hall/parlor main block with two story ell kitchen wing has retained most of its mid 19th Century character and related farm buildings.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Knight - Hurtt House c. 1850 is a 2^{1/2} story three bay side hall parlor frame house on Route 213 exactly opposite the turn to St. Xavier Church. The house faces east with a north/south compass axis.

The main block has a two story two bay by one room kitchen ell wing to the west. The entire house rests on a uncoursed fieldstone foundation and is sheatherd with asbestos siding over weatherboard. The steeply pitched roof on both sections is covered with seamed tin.

The east facade has a souther bay entrance with heavily molded arched four panel door and two light sidelights and panel below. Simple pilasters and cornice frame the sidelights and three light transom. Long 6/6 sash illuminate both the first and second floor with plain trim. A shed porch covers the first floor and is supported by square posts. The eaves to the main block are extended with sloped soffits. The north end has a 6/6 sash on each floor and two 2/2 attic lights that flank the brick stove stack. The south end has a second floor 6/6 sash and 6/6 attic window. The west side of the main block is primarily covered with the ell kitchen wing.

The north side has a western entrance with apjacent 6/6 sash window with plain trim. A central brick stove stack rises out of the wing. A modern shed roof porch covers the first floor of the north side, and is supported by square posts and a block foundation.

The west end has a first floor sash and 6/6 attic light. The end is closed with a plain bargeboard.

The south side is similar with a partially enclosed shed roof porch and similar 6/6 sash windows.

The interior of this mid 19th century house was not seen but not particularly necessary.

Outbuildings include a frame meathouse directly south of the kitchen with typical board siding and medium gable roof. A typical two story granary is located north of the main house with a central passage between side corn cribs. A small two bay wagon shed of single gabled bay and shed roof addition retains a decorative bargeboard. Frame cow barns are found to the northwest of the house. They are typically sheathed with vertical board siding.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Knight - Hurtt House is one of approximately a dozen structures that William Knight owned and which appeared on the 1877 Lake, Griffing and Stevenson Atlas. The simple hall/parlor frame house has retained most of its 19th century architectural character and represents the modest farm of the 19th century. The barn buildings complement the farm but do not offer any unusual form or surviving construction type.
