

CAPSULE SUMMARY SHEET

Survey No.: CH-446 (PACS B10) Construction Date: circa 1930

Name: Beuchert Property

Location: 15280 Beuchert Place, Hughesville vicinity, Charles County

Private/Residence/Occupied/Good/Restricted

Description:

The Beuchert Property consists of two 1½-story, 3-bay front-gable cottages on Beuchert Place in the vicinity of Hughesville, Charles County. Both cottages were constructed circa 1930. One cottage has a shed-roof addition on the rear elevation. The second cottage, located west of the first cottage, has a shed-roof porch on the front elevation, and a shed-roof addition on the rear elevation. The first cottage has a standing seam metal, front-gable roof with an interior concrete block chimney. The cottage is of concrete block construction. All windows in the cottage are 1/1 double-hung aluminum replacement windows. The windows have wood shutters with wood diamond panels. The second cottage has a standing seam metal, front-gable roof with an interior concrete block chimney. The cottage is of concrete block construction, with wood shingles in the gable end, and it has a concrete block foundation. All windows in the cottage are 6/6 double-hung wood.

Significance:

Constructed circa 1930, the Beuchert Property is an undistinctive example of a common building type. Both cottages lack distinctive characteristics of the vernacular cottage style such as a front porch with machine produced ornament, and the wood-frame addition to the rear of the first cottage has compromised the architectural integrity of the design by introducing materials incompatible with the remainder of the cottage. The Beuchert Property is located on a 10.99 hectare (27.17 acre) parcel of land on Beuchert Place. Based on the style of architecture, it has been concluded that the cottages were constructed circa 1930.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Beuchert Property consists of two 1½-story, 3-bay front-gable cottages on Beuchert Place in the vicinity of Hughesville, Charles County. Both cottages were constructed circa 1930. One cottage has a shed-roof addition on the rear elevation. The second cottage, located west of the first cottage, has a shed-roof porch on the front elevation, and a shed-roof addition on the rear elevation.

The first cottage has a standing seam metal, front-gable roof with an interior concrete block chimney. The cottage is of concrete block construction. All windows in the cottage are 1/1 double-hung aluminum replacement windows. The windows have wood shutters with wood diamond panels.

The north, or front elevation has an irregular fenestration pattern, with a 4-light wood door located between two first story windows. There is a one window in the gable end.

The east and west elevations have identical fenestration patterns, with one window in the first and third bays.

The south, or rear elevation has a full-width, wood-frame shed-roof addition. The addition is sheathed in plywood and has a series of openings covered with plastic. The visible part of the cottage has a window in the gable end.

The second cottage has a standing seam metal, front-gable roof with an interior concrete block chimney. The cottage is of concrete block construction, with wood shingles in the gable end, and it has a concrete block foundation. All windows in the cottage are 6/6 double-hung wood.

The north, or front elevation has a porch with a standing seam metal shed-roof supported by wood posts. The porch has a concrete slab floor. The elevation has a symmetrical fenestration pattern, with a wood door centered between two first story windows. There is a pair of windows in the gable end.

The east and west elevations have identical fenestration pattern, with one window in the first and third bays.

The south, or rear elevation has a full-width, shed-roof porch. The porch has a standing seam metal roof supported by wood posts and it has a concrete slab floor. The elevation has a symmetrical fenestration pattern, with a wood door centered between two first story windows. There is a pair of windows in the gable end.

There are two outbuildings associated with this property. The first outbuilding is a shed with a standing seam metal, shed-roof. Constructed circa 1950, the shed is of wood-frame construction with wood siding, and it is located south of the first cottage.

The second outbuilding is a shed with a standing seam metal, front-gable roof. Constructed circa 1950, the shed is of wood-frame construction with wood siding, and it is located south of the second cottage.

Directory and State Gazetteer listed both Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches in Hughesville as well as a Friends' school, four (4) general merchandise stores, two (2) saloons, two (2) undertakers, a wheelwright, a blacksmith, a tobacco buyer, and a population of fifty (50). Gannett's 1904 Gazetteer of Maryland defined Hughesville as a "post village...on the Washington, Potomac and Chesapeake Railroad" (Gannett 1904: 43). By 1906 the community was known as "a station of the Southern Maryland Railroad...and a banking town" with two (2) physicians, two (2) general stores, two (2) blacksmiths, a grist and saw mill, a flour mill, an undertaker and livery, a hotel, a hotel and saloon, a grocer and saloon, an insurance salesman, and a population of 150 (Maryland 1906: 667).

The Beuchert Property consists of two vernacular front-gable cottages. Between 1870 and 1940 the vernacular cottage style was typically built for Americans of modest means. They are characterized by simple ornamentation and mass-produced components, such as door frames, moldings, sash and window units, and porch decoration. The development of post-Civil War machinery capable of producing large amounts of standardized housing elements, such as those found in cottages, contributed greatly to the development of the modern American housing industry. Designs for vernacular cottages were obtained from popular magazines, such as House Beautiful, or carpenter's and builder's journals, such as American Builder. A variety of front-gable, side-gable, cross-gable and hipped roof frame cottages were developed in the early to mid-twentieth century. Front-gable and hipped roof cottages are primarily 1 to 1½-stories tall, 3-bays wide and several rooms deep. They usually include a porch covered with a shed roof. Porches are supported by posts often containing machine-produced Victorian ornamentation. Some cottages feature ornamentation drawn from Craftsman style or Colonial Revival architecture (Gottfried and Jennings 1988, viii-xv).

National Register Evaluation:

Constructed circa 1930, the Beuchert Property is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The property is not eligible under Criterion A, as research conducted indicates no association with historic events or trends significant in the development of national, state or local history. Historic research indicates that the property has no association with persons who have made specific contributions to history, and therefore, it does not meet Criterion B. The property is not eligible under Criterion C, as the buildings are undistinctive examples of common building types. Both cottages lack distinctive characteristics of the vernacular cottage style such as a front porch with machine produced ornament, and the wood-frame addition to the rear of the first cottage has compromised the architectural integrity of the design by introducing materials incompatible with the remainder of the cottage. Finally, the property has no known potential to yield important information, and therefore, is not eligible under Criterion D.
