Survey No.: CH-456 (PACS B22) Construction Date: 1948

Name: Lukenich Property

Location: 15275 Lukes Lane, Hughesville, Charles County

Private/Residence/Occupied/Good/Restricted

Description: The Lukenich Property is a 1-story, 4-bay side-gable cottage with Tudor Revival influences on the south side of Lukes Lane, east of Leonardtown Road in Hughesville, Charles County. Constructed in 1948, the building is rectangular in plan, formed by a side-gable main block, a partial-width rear ell and a rear porch located at the intersection of the rear ell and the side-gable main block. The structure has a side-gable roof covered with asphalt shingles. The building is of masonry construction a brick exterior. The windows are wood 1/1 double-hung with metal awnings. The house has a concrete stoop on the front elevation. The stoop is centered on a projecting front-gable section containing the front entrance. The front elevation also has a large brick exterior chimney.

Significance: The Lukenich Property is a .43 hectare (1.06 acre) parcel located on the south side of Lukes Lane, east of Leonardtown Road. According to the Charles County tax records, the house on the property was constructed in 1948. The building is an example of a common mid-twentieth century building type which lacks individual distinction. The architectural integrity of the building has been altered by the addition of metal awnings over the windows and the enclosure of the side and rear porches with modern materials.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Lukenich Property is a 1-story, 4-bay side-gable cottage with Tudor Revival influences on the south side of Lukes Lane, east of Leonardtown Road in Hughesville, Charles County. Constructed in 1948, the building is rectangular in plan, formed by a side-gable main block, a partial-width rear ell and a rear porch located at the intersection of the rear ell and the side-gable main block.

The structure has a side-gable roof covered with asphalt shingles. The building is of masonry construction with a brick exterior. The windows are wood 1/1 double-hung with metal awnings. The house has a concrete stoop on the front elevation. The stoop is centered on a projecting front-gable section containing the front entrance. The front elevation also has a large brick exterior chimney.

Access to the interior of the building was not available.

There are two outbuildings associated with this property. The first outbuilding is a wood-frame shed, with a side-gable roof covered with asphalt shingles. Constructed in 1948, it has aluminum siding and a large metal casement window on the south elevation. The structure is located west of the house.

The second outbuilding is a modern shed, with a gambrel roof covered with asphalt shingles. Constructed circa 1980, it is of wood-frame construction. The structure is located west of the house and north of the first shed.

The property is located on the south side of Lukes Lane, east of Leonardtown Road, with residential property on all sides.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Lukenich is a .43 hectare (1.06 acre) parcel located on the south side of Lukes Lane, south of Leonardtown Road. According to the Charles County tax records, the house on the property was constructed in 1948. There are no detailed, published historic maps of Charles County, Maryland that locate and indicate ownership of structures.

The Maryland Colony was granted by King Charles I to Lord Baltimore in 1632. Two years later, the first European community was established at St. Mary's City. Subsequent colonization moved north, along the Potomac and Patuxent Rivers. As settlers migrated away from St. Mary's City, the formation of a new county became necessary. In 1658 Charles County was founded in an area originally inhabited by Algonquins of the Powhatan Confederacy. Road clearing began in the mid-eighteenth century as a result of the establishment of port towns and Maryland's rising population. Tobacco cultivation dominated the economic and social life of Charles County until the mid-nineteenth century when soil exhaustion required agricultural diversification. The introduction of rail lines in the late nineteenth century linked Charles County with the north and south, encouraging trade. While the suburbanization of Charles County was ensured by the widespread availability of the automobile in the mid-twentieth century, the County has retained its rural and agricultural character.

The area that became Hughesville was located in Lord Baltimore's grant of 6,879.9 hectares (17,000 acres) of Newport Hundred to Major William Boarman during 1650-1699. This land included the region "east of Zachiah Swamp" and became known as Boarman's Manor. Hughesville does not appear on an 1840 Map of a Part of Maryland, and Fisher's 1852 Gazetteer of the State of Maryland did not list the community. Hughesville was located at the crossroads of two of the main routes through Charles County: Burnt Store to Patuxent City and on to Annapolis, (Burnt Store Road and Prince Frederick Road/Route 231) and Bryantown to Charlotte Hall and on to St. Mary's City (Leonardtown Road/Route 5). Accordingly, Hughesville is shown on Martenet's 1866 Map of Maryland, Atlas Edition. The 1871 State Gazette and Merchants and Farmers Directory for Maryland and the District of Columbia called Hughesville a "post town." Bland's 1887 Maryland Directory and State Gazetteer listed both Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches in Hughesville as well as a Friends' school, four (4) general merchandise stores, two (2) saloons, two (2) undertakers, a wheelwright, a blacksmith, a tobacco buyer, and a population of fifty (50). Gannett's 1904 Gazetteer of Maryland defined Hughesville as a "post village...on the Washington, Potomac and Chesapeake Railroad" (Gannett 1904: 43). By 1906 the community was known as "a station of the Southern Maryland Railroad...and a banking town" with two (2) physicians, two (2) general stores, two (2) blacksmiths, a grist and saw mill, a flour mill, an undertaker and livery, a hotel, a hotel and saloon, a grocer and saloon, an insurance salesman, and a population of 150 (Maryland 1906: 667).

The Lukenich Property is a side-gable cottage constructed in 1948. From the 1870s to the 1940s, the vernacular cottage style was typically built for Americans of modest means. They are characterized by simple ornamentation and mass-produced components, such as door frames, moldings, sash and window units, and porch decoration. The development of post-Civil War machinery capable of producing large amounts of standardized housing elements, such as those found in cottages, contributed greatly to the development of the modern American housing industry. Designs for vernacular cottages were obtained from popular magazines, such as House Beautiful, or carpenter's and builder's journals, such as American Builder. A variety of front-gable, side-gable, cross-gable and hipped roof frame cottages were developed in the early to mid-twentieth century. Front-gable and hipped roof cottages are primarily 1 to 1½-stories tall, 3-bays wide and several rooms deep. Side-gable and cross-gable structures are usually 2 to 2½-stories tall, are typically 2 to 3-bays in width and vary from one to three rooms deep. They usually include a porch covered with a shed roof. Porches are supported by posts often containing machine-produced Victorian ornamentation. Some cottages feature ornamentation drawn from Craftsman style or Colonial Revival architecture (Gottfried and Jennings 1988, viii-xv).

National Register Evaluation:

Constructed in 1948, the Lukenich Property is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The property is not eligible under Criterion A, as research conducted indicates no association with any historic events or trends significant in the development of national, state or local history. Historic research indicates that the property has no association with persons who have made specific contributions to history, and therefore, it does not meet Criterion B. It is not eligible under Criterion C, as it is an example of a common mid-twentieth century building type which lacks individual distinction. The architectural integrity of the building has been altered by the addition of metal awnings over the windows and the enclosure of the side and rear porches with modern materials. Finally, the structure has no known potential to yield important information, and therefore, is not eligible under Criterion D.
