The single family dwelling at 714 Peach Blossom Avenue in Cambridge, Dorchester County, MD is not located in the National Register Cambridge Historic District, nor in any NR-eligible residential historic district in Cambridge. The property is not considered eligible for individual listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

Probably built in the last quarter of the 19th century, this house is a two-story, two-bay frame structure with a two-story rear ell. The house is set upon a low foundation, has weatherboard walls (or is this vinyl siding??) and is covered with a gable roof with shingles (concrete, asphalt??) A single-story porch, partially enclosed, extends across the front facade. The windows have the original 2/2 wood sash. The dwelling is typical of the residential building of the period and lacks the requisite distinctiveness to qualify it for listing on the National Register under Criterion C.

The property is not known to have associations with persons or events significant to our past and thus does not qualify under Criteria A or B.

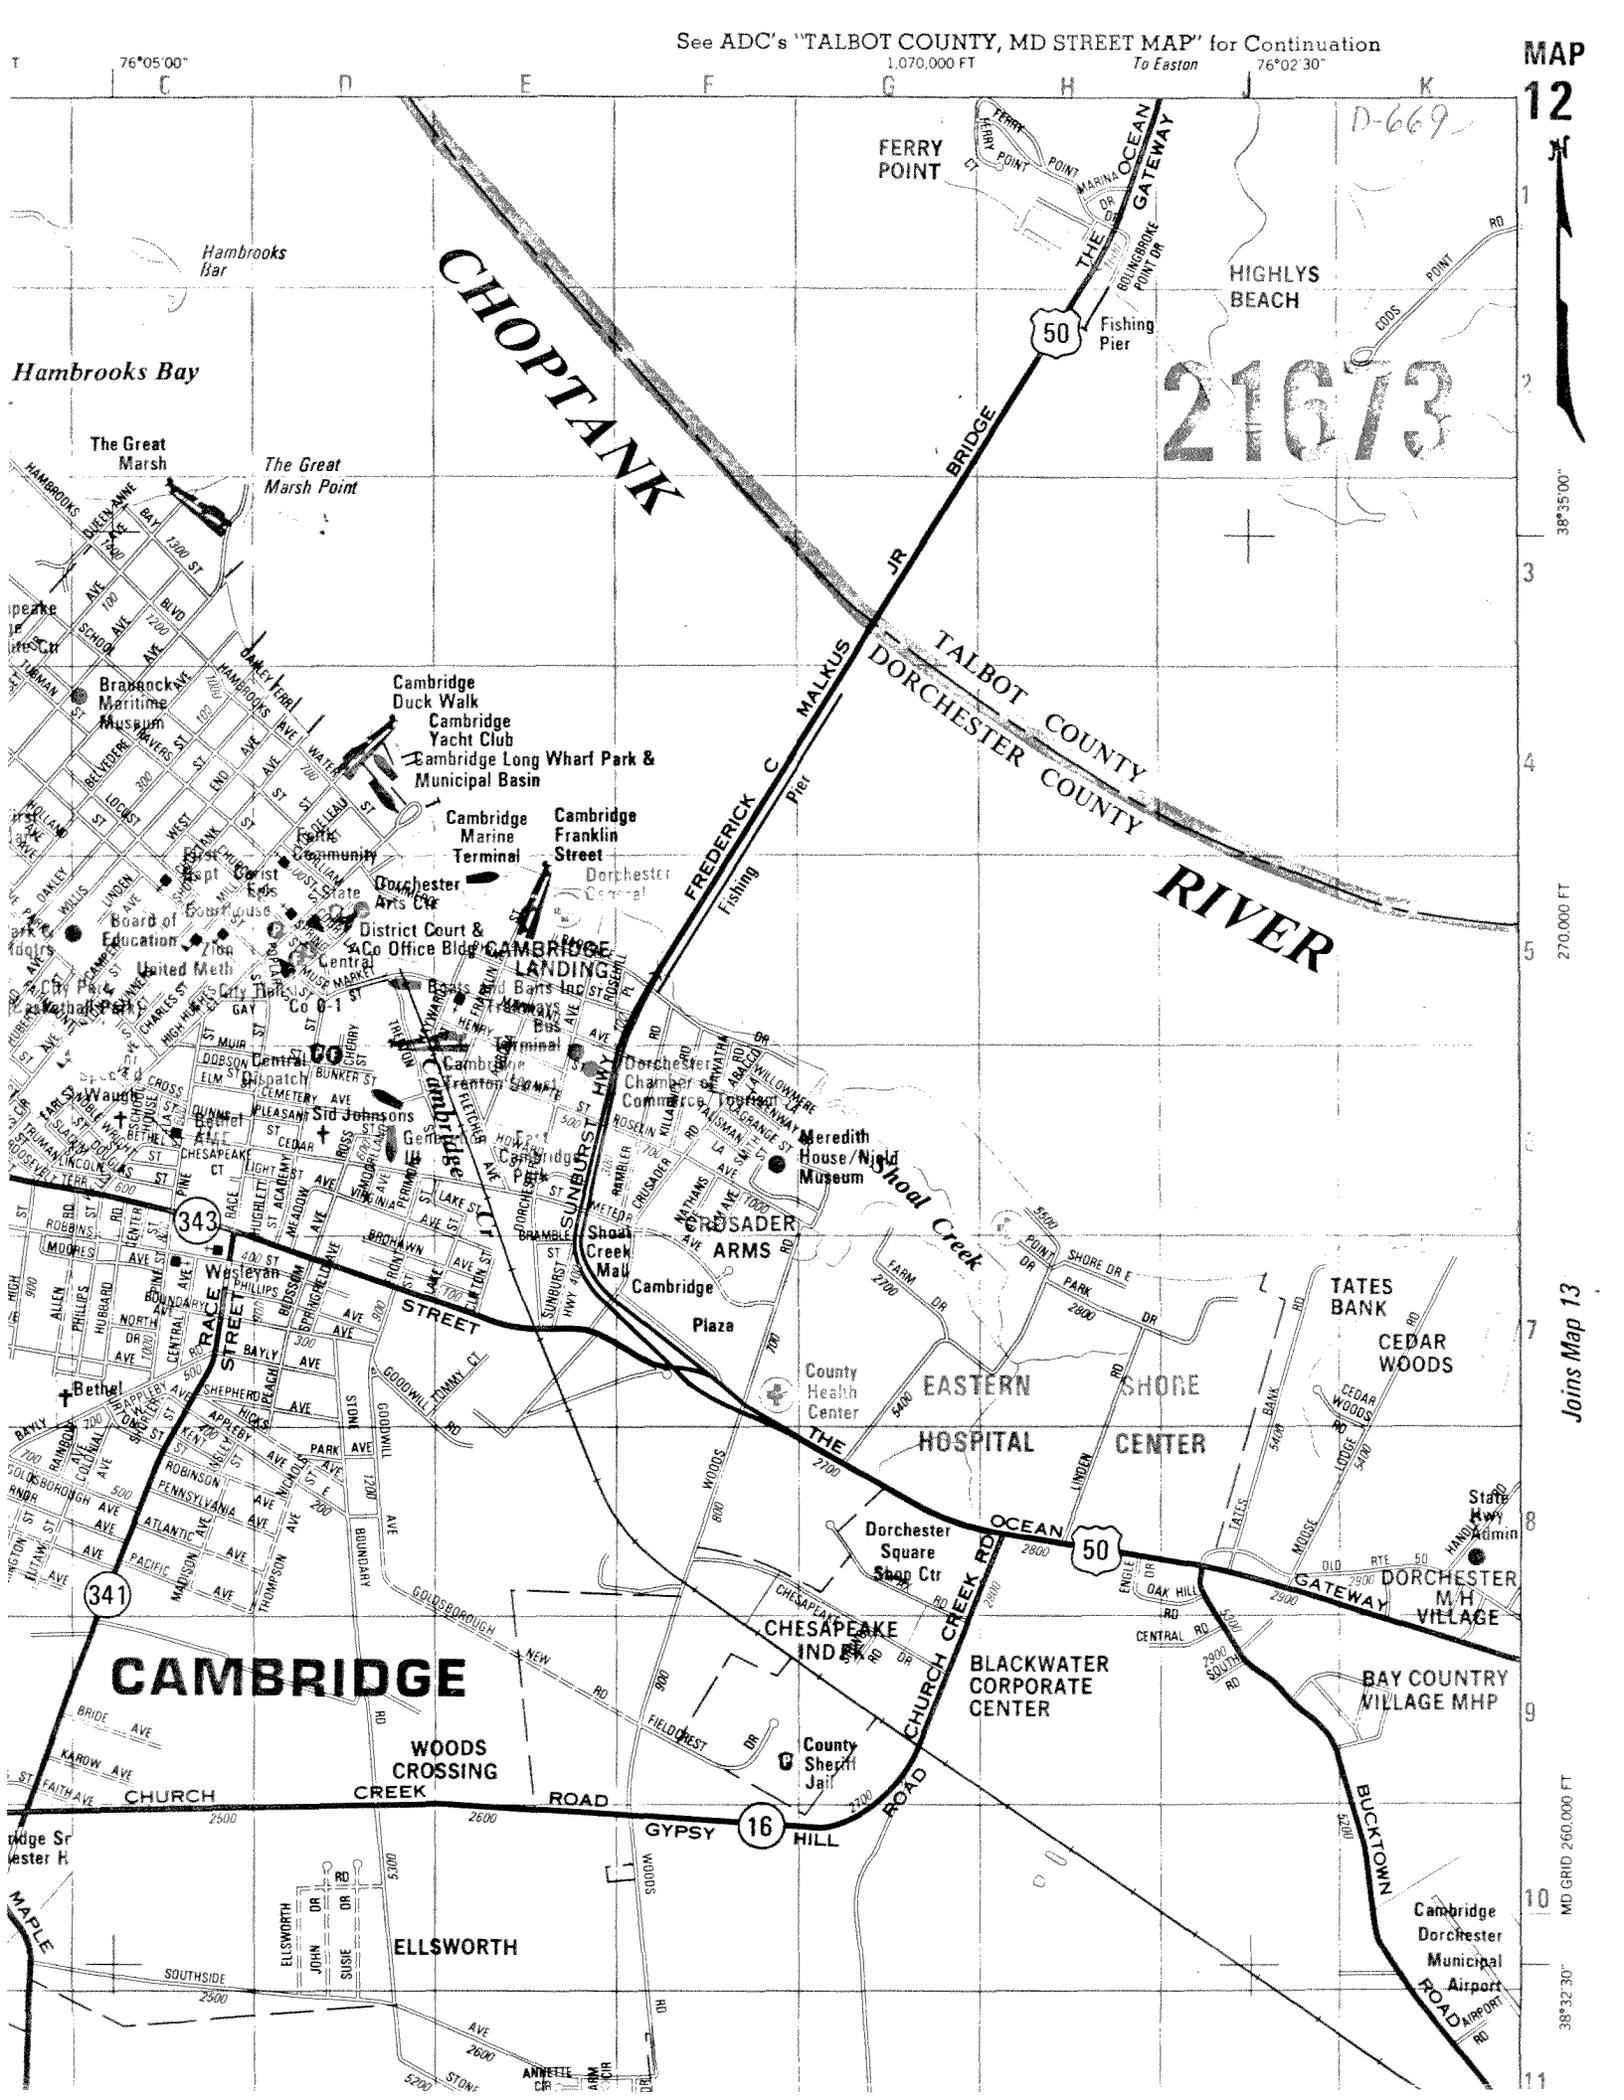

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: _____
