Built 1900
Rebuilt 1930

Constructed on land donated by the wealthy Baker family of Buckeystown, the Buckeystown Methodist Church is a good example of public Carpenter Gothic architecture in the town.

Built in 1900, the present structure replaced an earlier two story frame church structure located on the north side of Manor Woods Road and torn down in 1950.

The church is a one story frame four bay wide building with two story frame belfry decorated with fishscale shingling, a decorative railing and finial atop its roof.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Buckeystown Methodist Church is a four bay wide frame one story church which faces north from the south side of old Route 80 in Buckeystown.

The main block of the church is rectangular with a two story frame belfry located in the northwest corner of the building. The first level of the belfry is covered with narrow clapboarding and corner boards.

The main entrance, twin four panel doors with segmented triangular transom is centered on the facade of the belfry. Double hung Gothic windows are located on either side of the belfry tower. A decorative molded cornice separates the first floor from the top of the building.

The second level of the belfry tower is covered with fishscale shingling. A double hung Gothic window is located on each side of the belfry tower. A decorative open frame belfry with decorative railing and brackets sits on top of the tower covered by a pyramidal asphalt roof with finial.

The narrow clapboard and fishscale shingling elevation treatment of the main block of the building is identical to the belfry tower.

Centered on the first floor of the main chancel are three Gothic double hung windows. A small six pane round window is in the center of the north gable of the building. The church is covered by a patterned slate roof. A plain molded cornice with sawnwork decoration connects the roof to the building.

The entire structure is built on a low random stone foundation with granite cornerstone located in the northeast corner.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The present Methodist Protestant Church replaced an earlier two story frame structure located on the north side of Manor Woods Road and torn down around 1950.

Built in 1900 and rebuilt in 1930 according to its cornerstone, the fine Carpenter Gothic Methodist Protestant Church was constructed on land donated by the Baker family.

The building has undergone little change since constructed and is a good example of public Carpenter Gothic architecture in Buckeystown.
