Based on the information provided, the farm at 6911 Poole Jones Rd., Frederick is a circa 1870 dwelling, with 2-1/2 stories, wood-frame, and five bays. Although resided in aluminum siding, it has been done in a sensitive manner and many of the architectural details have been retained, such as the gable brackets, slate or wood shingles, 1 over 1 windows, a paneled door with transom and sidelights, and a full-width front porch with chamfered posts and Eastlake detailing. Although there are several outbuildings of less than 50 years of age, these do not detract from the rural character of the site. Therefore, the 6911 Poole Jones Road property is eligible for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places, based on criterion C, for its architectural character since the house represents the rural Stick and Colonial Revival styles of houses from the last half of the nineteenth century.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Project Review and Compliance Files and Phase I Archeological and Architectural Reconnaissance of the Tuscarora Creek Sewer Interceptor by R. Christopher Goodwin & Associates for Frederick County DPW
