Kelly's Store Road House

Thurmont vicinity

Private

The Kelly's Store Road House is situated near the corner of Kelly's Store Road and Brice Road approximately 1/2 mile from Catoctin Furnace, Maryland. The principal elevation faces south with the gable roof oriented east to west. Two frame outbuildings with shed roofs are situated to the north of the house. The house is significant in representing a possible tavern/inn of the mid-nineteenth century. It demonstrates a typical building of that type with close alignment to an early roadway and a lengthy facade. It also was connected to the small community that developed when the Monocacy Valley Railroad established a line through the area on route to Catoctin Furnace in 1886. It may have continued serving in a commercial capacity into the twentieth century.

7.1 Description:

The Kelly's Store Road House is situated near the corner of Kelly's Store Road and Brice Road approximately 1/2 mile from Catoctin Furnace, Maryland. The principal elevation faces south with the gable roof oriented east to west. Two frame outbuildings with shed roofs are situated to the north of the house.

Constructed circa 1840, the building is clearly oriented to the road and situated several feet away from it. It is a 2 story aluminum sided building that is possibly of log construction. It rests on a concrete foundation. The gable roof of standing seam tin has one center brick chimney with an arcaded cap. There is also one exterior end concrete chimney on the west end. The house is 7 bays wide and 2 bays deep. A 2 story addition extends from the rear elevation. A one story shed roofed garage is attached to the east end of the building.

The main (south) elevation has asymmetrical openings. The first floor has two doors, three 2/2 windows, one 1/1 window and a three-sided bay window (replacing an original). The second floor has three 2/2 windows and two 1/1 windows. A open porch with chamfered columns and a shed roof partially covers the facade. The garage elevation has a sliding door. The north elevation also has asymmetrical openings with one original 6/6 window on the second floor and all others replacements. The first floor has a 2 bay enclosed porch with a shed roof. There is a 2 story, 2 bay shed roofed addition with a smaller one story addition extending from it. A new staircase has been added to the elevation.

The west gable end is two bays wide with 2/2 windows. The rear addition is one bay wide on this elevation with 2/2 windows. The east gable end is also 2 bays wide with one 1/1 window on the second floor and one 4 light attic window. The garage elevation has a sliding door.

8.1 Significance:

The Kelly's Store Road House is significant in representing a possible tavern/inn of the mid-nineteenth century. It demonstrates a typical building of that type with close alignment to an early roadway and a lengthy facade. It also was connected to the small community that developed when the Monocacy Valley Railroad established a line through the area on route to Catoclin Furnace in 1886. It may have continued serving in a commercial capacity into the twentieth century.

A number of other buildings in Frederick County resemble the Kelly's Store Road House and indicate a possible early commercial use of tavern and/or inn. One example is located on Catoclin Furnace Road approximately 1 & 1/2 miles from the Kelly's Store Road House. The example is located on a major early route and has a number of bay openings. It is also probably a log building. The Kelly's Store Road House compares to this example and others with an average level of integrity. Many of these buildings have suffered various alterations such as aluminum siding and window changes; the Kelly's Store Road House shows these typical changes. More intact examples are located in towns such as nearby Thurmont. Despite alterations, this type of building strongly conveys an early commercial use through form and proximity to an early county road.

This building appears to be denoted on both the 1858 and 1873 maps of the county. During the nineteenth century, the building probably served as a tavern in the outlying area of Catoclin Furnace. It was situated on a road that led to eastern regions of the county such as the Creagerstown area. In 1886, the Monocacy Valley Railroad established a small line of three miles that ran from Catoclin Furnace to Thurmont. The purpose of the line was to transport iron from the furnace into the larger town of Thurmont by rail instead of the more laborious method of using horse teams. In the immediate vicinity of Kelly's Store Road House, a station was established in connection with the new rail line, Red Hill Station. A small community became clustered around the station. By the early twentieth century, the Catoclin Furnace was in decline, and the rail line became obsolete.
