

ABSTRACT

G-IA-193

MASON-DIXON LINE: MILESTONE NO. ---(195) 1767 (mound), 1902 (monument)
Springs, Pennsylvania vicinity
Public/private

Milestone No. ---(195) and its loose mound of stones, mark Mason and Dixon's 177th mile west of the northeast corner of Maryland, the beginning of their 230.228-mile West Line, the English provincial boundary later known as the Mason-Dixon Line, famous for its historical impact and innovative survey methods. The monument is a very plain dressed marble post with a low pyramidal top, quarried and carved in Cockeysville, Maryland. It is in excellent condition, unaltered, firmly in place; measures 10 inches square by about 12 inches high above the mound; and is embellished only by the capital letter P on the north side facing Pennsylvania, M on the south side facing Maryland, the year 1767 on the east side (when this site was originally surveyed and marked with a cairn), and 1902 on the west side (when the new monument was added to the mound during the 1900-03 Resurvey of the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary, substituting for the original wood centerpost, by then no longer in evidence. The mound, also in excellent condition, measures about 10 feet in diameter by about 3 feet high at the center. On the national and state levels, No. ---(195) and the mound are significant primarily as being among the thematic group series of some 248 markers still visually defining the West Line. Locally, as among the some 42 markers along the present Garrett/Somerset-Fayette county boundary, they are also significant symbolically for their identifiable relationship to the colonial and Civil War heritage of these counties.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Milestone No. ---(195) and its mound of <sup>loose</sup>stones mark a point on the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary 177 miles west of the northeast corner of Maryland, the beginning of Mason and Dixon's 230.228-mile West Line. The monument is a very plain dressed Cockeysville marble post with a low pyramidal top, in excellent condition, unaltered, firmly in place. It measures 10 inches square by about 12 inches high above the mound; and is embellished only by the capital letter P on the north side facing Pennsylvania, M on the south side facing Maryland, the year 1767 on the east side (when originally surveyed and marked with a cairn), and 1902 on the west side (when the new monument was set in the center of the mound during the 1900-03 Resurvey of the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary). The mound, also in excellent condition, is presumably the remains of the original cairn, with the monument substituted for the original wood post by then no longer at the site. It measures about 10 feet in diameter by about 3 feet high at the center.

The area here is at the edge of a wooded ravine, with most other nearby lands rolling farmlands, sparsely settled. The site is within Election District 3 of Garrett County, MD, and Elk Lick Township of Somerset County, PA; about 1½ miles southeast of the town of Springs, PA; about 2½ miles northeast of the town of Grantsville, MD; about 2900 feet west of the Casselman River; about 2250 feet west of River Road/T-444 at the Line; about 10 feet south of the old pipeline, at the north edge of the ravine woods and slope. It cannot be seen from any road, and not easily from closeby because of the tangle of overgrowth, which seems to serve as a protection, as well. Until the 1900-03 Resurvey engineer's map location for this site and USGS topography map ravine/<sup>stream</sup>location are reconciled, the site must be considered a temporary estimate in the field (in relation to the topography <sup>present</sup>and/stream course).

The monument, identical to 65 other monuments of 1902 set west of Sideling Hill to visually reestablish the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary, was quarried and carved in Cockeysville, MD, of a white, fine-grained marble called magnesian limestone or saccharoidal dolomite; was originally cut about 10 inches square by about 4½ feet ling, intended for setting about 1½ feet above ground with the remaining 3 feet for setting into the ground, thus eliminating the need for a concrete foundation. The letters and numbers are blocky, V-sunk without serifs, and are horizontally aligned as a band around the stone near the top. These, and the top planes and apex are all clear and intact; though there is a chip in the top southeast corner, and all surfaces are darkened and mossy from excessive moisture.
