The John Hafer House is a classically influenced dwelling remodeled on a grand scale, typical of 1920's affluence. However, the core of this house is a typical vertical plank constructed house, that has been added to and altered.

Its basic configuration is a 3 bay by 3 bay gable end facade dwelling with a 3 bay by 1 bay gable roofed addition of equal proportion abutting the rear of the main block.

A 2-story inset facade porch supported by 4 stone columns is a prominent feature of the house. The second story is enclosed. The central facade entrance features an ornate, classically influenced door surround.

A small single story, one by one bay gable roofed structure with an exterior brick chimney is located directly behind the house and is connected to it by a short hall with its own entrance. Another small gable roof cinderblock addition with interior brick chimney is located behind that. A large bank barn and other outbuildings are located behind and west of the house.

The house rests on a stone foundation and is covered with asbestos shingles. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles. One over one sash windows light the house.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The John Hafer house is distinctive because it embodies the classically influenced style of the 1920s-not a common form in Garrett County. However, the core of this house is a typical plank constructed house, but due to the prominence of the Hafer family in this area, it was transformed to meet their needs and ideals.

The farm is noteworthy as well, for the number of outbuildings, all arranged on a grand scale.
