DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The former Knights of Pythias Hall is a 2 storey frame building located between the Riverside Hotel and G-44 on the west bank of the Youghioghenny. Now a private residence, the first floor appears to have at one time been some sort of a commercial establishment, as there is a recessed central entrance flanked by large windows. Rather interestingly constructed, this store front is made up of turned balusters. The second storey, the meeting room of the Knights, has only two windows and these are pointed Gothic windows, spaced far apart, almost at either edge of the front facade. There are simple drip moldings over the lancet windows.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (Include Personages, Dates, Events, Etc.)

The old Knights of Pythias Hall is one of Friendsville's more interesting building's architecturally. Probably built about the same time as the now demolished Friendsville store, the Knights of Pythias Hall exhibits the same brittle decoration (on the first floor), and illustrates the almost capricious mixing of stylistic references often found in 'Victorian' commercial architecture.
