DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The William Burkhart Farm is located on the N side of Rt. 219S, about a half mile NE of Hoyes Road. The farm consists of a house, barn and a small outbuilding.

The house is a square, two-story, brick dwelling with a three-bay, center-door facade. The facade points S and is covered with a one-story, hipped-roofed porch. A one-story, shed-roofed porch is attached to the N elevation.

The house is built of brick in stretcher bond and rests on a cut stone foundation with a beveled stone water table. The windows are one over sash with stone sills and lintels. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles and has a deep soffit. The W, S, and E elevations have gable-roofed dormers. The house has one interior brick chimney set W of center. The facade porch has brick supports and a cornice with dentils below an asphalt shingle roof. The porch on the N elevation has square posts and an asphalt shingle roof. The interior arrangement of the house is unknown.

W of the house is a frame bank barn. The barn entrance faces S. The foundation is stone, the walls are covered with vertical boards, and the roof is corrugated metal.

N of the house is a gable-roofed outbuilding, covered with vertical boards.

The two-bay-deep side wall of the house are asymmetrically fenestrated. Three regularly spaced bays appear on either floor at the rear. On the first floor, an additional window is located to the right.

As the land slopes away from the northeast corner of the house the cellar is fully exposed. A cellar entrance appears at the east end of the north side.

The cellar is fenestrated on the partly exposed east, north, and west sides.
