Prepare both a one paragraph summary and a comprehensive description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

This is a two-story, four--by-two-bay, gable-roofed L-plan frame dwelling with an enclosed one-story shed-roofed front porch and two one-story shed-roofed rear additions. The house faces north and is located on an open and gently sloping lot about two miles northeast of Oakland.

Built on a rockfaced concrete block foundation that encloses a full cellar, the walls of the house are clad in natural-colored wooden board-and-batten siding finished with dark brown trim. The house is topped with an asphalt-shingled gable roof finished with a boxed wooden eave and a flat wooden frieze board. An interior brick chimney with a corbeled top rises from the middle of the rear ell.

Windows are mostly single one-over-one, double-hung aluminum sash finished with plain flat wooden surrounds, sills, and drip caps. Several three-over-one, double-hung wooden sash windows are also present. Both main entrances are located on the eastern elevation. The entrance closest to the front of the house is fitted with a modern paneled wooden door topped with a diamond-paned glass upper section. The entrance near the rear of the house contains a wooden door with a one-light glass upper section. A metal bulkhead door on the same elevation leads to the cellar.

The full-width shed-roofed front porch has been fully enclosed with board-and-batten siding to match the rest of the house. Its foundation has been concealed behind a wooden skirt. The two rear shed-roofed additions have also been clad in board-and-batten siding, and both are topped with asphalt-shingled gable roofs.

A one-story, flat-roofed, gable-fronted frame woodshed stands to the northeast. This building is clad in corrugated metal and appears to be used for storing firewood. A separate commercial building with a sign advertising "Snowy Creek Handcrafts & Power Equipment" stands north of the main dwelling and apparently shares the same driveway. This is a modern gable-fronted, gable-roofed frame building clad in incised plywood siding. A gravel driveway oriented perpendicular to the main road extends southeastward between the northeastern side of the house and this commercial building. A wire fence encircles part of the back yard. Most of the property is open with a few shade trees planted close to the house. The house is presently occupied and in good condition, but extensive residing and refenestration have compromised its integrity.

Prepare a one-paragraph summary statement of significance addressing applicable criteria, followed by a narrative discussion of the history of the resource and its context. (For compliance reports, complete evaluation on a DOE Form - see manual).

The Ambizioso Partners House, built circa 1940, relates to the continued expansion and settlement of the Oakland and Mountain Lake Park areas in the mid-twentieth century. The development of summer vacation resorts and hotels in the Oakland area in the late nineteenth century had helped to stimulate settlement of the region. Although no longer as prominent a resort in the mid-twentieth century, Oakland still remained an important local mercantile and community center, and continued its growth throughout this period. Residential development typically occurred along pre-existing road networks. The Ambizioso Partners house exemplifies much of the region's mid-twentieth-century residential architecture.
