DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Wilson's Mill House is a mid-19th century, two-story stone house located on a hill above Wilson's Mill (HA-11) at the Darlington Road (MD 161) crossing of Deer Creek in Harford County, Maryland. The main section faces southeast toward the mill and the highway bridge.

The house consists of a two-story main section and a two-story ell addition with a one-story stone extension on the west end of the ell. The main section has a three-bay facade with a center entrance. The window openings and doorway have stone lintels and sills. The doorway has french doors, undoubtedly 20th century replacements for the original door, and a three-light rectangular transom. Fenestration is six over six modern sliding sash. A shed porch projects from the north end of the main section. A flagstone terrace extends around the main section to the rear of the house where the ell addition adjoins. Interior end chimneys project above the slate gable roof. The chimneys are brick above the roof.

The ell has a third interior chimney at the junction with the main section. A two-level open wood porch extends along the south side of the ell. A sunken stone water pump house built in 1932 adjoins the flagstone terrace near the west end of the ell.

The interior of the house has been altered, but the main section may have had two rooms on the ground floor and two on the second. The ground floor room is now a single space, with the simple original mantels in place. The ell contains the possible original kitchen and the present modern kitchen.

A storage shed, barn, garage, corncrib, and chicken coop, all built in the 1930's, are located west of the house. At various locations along the slope of the hill toward Deer Creek and the mill are small square stone buildings for garden equipment. The entire complex is now bordered on the north and west by orchards.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Wilson's Mill House is significant as one of the four main buildings in the Wilson's Mill complex, one of the oldest and most complete mill groups on Deer Creek.

Mills of various types were built along Deer Creek from the mid-18th century through the end of the 19th century, contributing both to the further settlement of the county and to the growth of industry in the area. Wilson's Mill was both a grist and sawmill.

HISTORY AND SUPPORT

The mill house was possibly built in 1856 after the original log house burned. It appears on the 1858 Jennings and Herrick map as the D.E. Wilson house and on the 1878 Martenet map as the David Wilson house.

For further information on the complex, see Wilson's Mill (HA-11), Wilson's Mill Miller's House (HA-25), and Wilson's Mill Tenant House (HA-392).

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

On a wooded hill above the mill, the miller's house is of stone, two stories high, three bays long and one room deep. It faces south with the ridge-line of the slate roof running east-west. A long wing runs north, two stories high, containing a modern kitchen.

Behind the house to the north is a small stone barn built by the Stokes, and a small stone-enclosed barnyard.

The house is simply a Federal country-craftsman-built house, the woodwork plain, the mantels carefully preserved.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (Include Personages, Dates, Events, Etc.)

Now the country ~~retreat~~ ^{retreat} of a wealthy Philadelphian family, their mill and house were purchased in 1931 by Mr. F. J. Stokes, and have been ~~carefully~~ ~~and~~ ~~carefully~~ maintained in simple Quaker taste until the present time.

Built after the original log house was burned in 1856, this house had been lived in by a succession of millers, David ~~Stokes~~ Wilson, and D. Gilpin Wilson, who ran the grist-mill until 1931 although this business had been falling off in the 1900's.
