MANUCY HOUSE
Havre de Grace, Md.

~~1223~~
c. 1890's

Located on a corner lot, the Manucy House is a two and a half story frame dwelling with an ell-shaped plan and two very similar street facades. The Queen Anne features of the house are covered by asbestos siding; but the lines of the house, the chimney, and the corner entrance porch remain to remind us of the builder's original intent.

701 S. Washington Street is a two and a half story three bay wide L-shaped frame dwelling which is covered with asbestos shingles and rests on a stone foundation. The house faces west on the corner of S. Washington Street and Alliance Street. A contemporary 1 story L-shaped vertical board addition with a deck on the northeast elevation has been added to the rear of the house.

A square bay entrance porch fills the northwest corner of the front elevation. It has a sloping pyramidal roof with an open work spindle frieze supported by turned posts a simple railing with spherical topped newel posts.

Windows are spaced unevenly on the front elevation. Throughout the house they contain 1/1 light double hung sash. Metal louvered shutters are present on the front. The north bay is recessed and contains only one window.

The main entrance is in the north elevation of the advanced south side of the front elevation. The door has two panels in the lower half and glass in the upper half. A two light transom is above it.

An L-shaped gable front roof covers the house. On the north elevation the gable end of the roof extends to the porch roof. The roof is shingled with asphalt, has overhanging eaves and a boxed cornice.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

701 S. Washington St. is a two and a half story ell-shaped frame house. The house, built on a corner lot, has two very similar street facades, with an Eastlake style entrance porch in the north-west corner. The addition of green asbestos shingles has somewhat altered the vernacular Queen Anne appearance of this structure. Houses of this sort depend on a variety of textures and building materials for their distinctive appearance. Even small alterations make a difference. For example, the attic gables were most likely shingled wood in a decorative pattern,;but now this feature is gone.

All along S. Washington St. are well maintained mid to late 19th century frame dwellings , relating to each other in size, scale, style and material. Many of them are gabled Carpenter Gothic cottages on grassy lots that extend to the alleys behind them; built as one and two family dwellings most of them retain that scheme of occupancy. However, because Harford Memorial Hospital is one block west, the neighborhood has become vulnerable to intrusions from buildings related to the medical profession. These new buildings as well as new building uses not only displace old buildings and residents, but they discourage buyers who are initially attracted to the cozy homogeneous appearance of this part of Havre de Grace but fear it is changing.
