Bush Forest Chapel Site
Stepney Road
Aberdeen, Maryland 21001

ca. 1842

The partial remains of rubblestone walls and a granite marker are all that remain of the second Bush Forest Chapel on Stepney Road. The first was of log construction, erected in 1769 under the supervision of Robert Strawbridge. The first documented Methodist preacher, Strawbridge became an independent itinerant preacher after fleeing from Ireland and settling in Frederick County. Bush Forest Chapel was the second oldest meeting house in Maryland, and the third oldest in America. Strawbridge was also instrumental in erecting several other meeting houses in the vicinity--the Gunpowder Forks chapel in 1771 and the Gunpowder Neck chapel (Edgewood Arsenal) in 1773.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

According to a history of the Grace United Methodist Church, the successor to Bush Forest Chapel, the ruins here belong to the second chapel on that site. The first was of log construction, erected in 1769 under the supervision of Robert Strawbridge. The first documented Methodist preacher in America, Strawbridge became an independent itinerant preacher after fleeing from Ireland and settling in Frederick County. Bush Forest Chapel was the second oldest meeting house in Maryland, and the third oldest in America. (The first was at Sam's Creek in Frederick County in 1764.) Strawbridge also was instrumental in erecting several other meeting houses in the vicinity--the Gunpowder Forks Chapel in 1771 and the Gunpowder Neck Chapel (Edgewood Arsenal) in 1773.

The Old Bush Forest Chapel is first mentioned by Francis Asbury in his Journal entry of "Lord's Day, December 6, 1772. Went about five miles to preach in our first preaching house. The house had no windows or doors; the weather was very cold; so that my heart pitied the people when I saw them so exposed. Putting a hankerchief over my head, I preached, and after an hour's intermission (the people waiting all the time in the cold) I preached again."

Asbury, in his Journal entry of November 16, 1791, corrects himself by describing Bush Chapel as the second meeting house in the state.

Asbury and Thomas Pilmore again preached at the log chapel in 1773. Asbury visited and preached at the Chapel in September 1776, May 1777 and May 1800. In July 1809, Freeborn Garrettson preached under the trees to a congregation far exceeding the capacity of the Chapel.

Mr. Benjamin Herbert (1723-1818) gave the ground and paid a large portion of the expense of erecting the original log chapel. The first deed vested the half-acre Chapel property in "the Reverends John & Charles Wesley...the yearly conference of the people called Methodists in England," and 9 trustees: Henry, Godfrey & Stephen Watters (brothers of William Watters, the first American Itinerant); Bernard Preston (ancestor of James H. Preston, Mayor of Baltimore and Judge Walter W. Preston of Harford County); John Bull; Samuel Forward; Joshua Armstrong; James Baker (on whose estate at Gunpowder Forks the fourth chapel in Maryland was built in 1772); Joseph Presbury (on whose estate in Gunpowder Neck, the fifth chapel was built in 1773 and the first Quarterly Conference of Strawbridge's itinerants was held in 1772.) From its building in 1769, Bush Forest Chapel was a preaching station on the Baltimore Circuit until 1788, according to the records obtained from Rev. Edwin Schell of the United Methodist Historical Society, Baltimore. No records designate those who held services at Bush until 1773. Prior to 1773, services at Bush probably were held at intervals by Robert Strawbridge and other itinerant preachers enlisted by Strawbridge.

In 1842 the "Log Chapel" was replaced by a stone chapel and dedicated later in that year by Reverend Henry Slicer, a former preacher there. The stone chapel contained a balcony in the rear for Christian Negroes.

In 1844, the church, now called Bush Chapel, became the headquarters of the newly formed East Harford Circuit and consisted of the following: Garrettson Chapel (near Michaelsville, Aberdeen Proving Ground), Aberdeen (probably the old Paradise School), Smith Chapel (Bel Air Road near Churchville), Rock Run (Rock Run Road), Bush Chapel (Stepney Road), Calvary (Churchville-Abingdon Road), Abingdon and Gunpowder Neck Chapel (Edgewood Arsenal).

The ministers serving the East Harford Circuit after its formation were:

1845 - Charles B. Young, Joseph France
 1846 - Charles B. Young, J.W. Lamberth
 1847 - W.T.D. Clemm, Charles McElfresh
 1848 - W.T.D. Clemm, John W. Bull

In 1878 the stone church was abandoned and a new frame church built alongside the stone church. The stone church was given to the Christian negroes of the area for a meeting place and church and was destroyed by fire that year.

After the frame church was built, Bush Chapel remained on the original East Harford Circuit until 1881. The circuit was served by the following:

1879 - Wm. R. Givinn
 1880 - H. McNamar, C.A. Jones

In 1881 the East Harford Circuit was revised and consisted of the following churches: Bush Chapel, Abingdon, Gunpowder and Calvary. The ministers serving the revised East Harford Circuit were: C.A. Jones, R. Murphy, B.G. Reed, Solomon German, Harry D. Mitchell, E.H. Lamar, J.E. Amoss, Milton H. Courtney, W.L. Orem, W.D. Beale and Francis Bayley.

The frame or third Bush Chapel Church, was abandoned in 1925 since many of its members had moved to Aberdeen and joined either the Aberdeen M.E. Church (sometimes called the Baker Church) or the Grace M.D. Church, South. The church building was purchased for $300 by Mr. A.H. Wilson who dismantled the building and used much of the lumber to construct an office building for the Wilson-Oliver Insurance Agency on W. Bel Air Avenue near the B & O Railroad. According to one newspaper, the seats were sold "to the Asbury ME Church, colored, for $100."

All that remains today of Bush Forest Chapel is the ruins of the second church, or stone chapel, and a granite marker which bears the inscription showing the dates of the three Bush Chapel churches built on this site.
