DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a granite building, one story high, with a high, lighted basement. It has a tower in front with a frame belfry topped by a spire. The belfry has two pointed, louvered windows on each side. The tower, on the front end gable, is two stories high and entrance is gained through a one storied, gable front passageway with pointed, arched double doors. The doors have moulded panels. Above this entrance are double lancet windows, joined by tracery, and with a pointed arch above them. Above that, as well as on the north and south sides of the tower, is a round, latticed window set in a round arch. Also on the north and south sides of the tower are two small lancet windows, one on each side. The church, 4 bays by one, also has larger lancet windows on the north and south sides of the main ediface. The slate roof has a tall, narrow, brick chimney rising from the south east side between the first and second bay. A stone wall surrounds the church and cemetery. A plaque marking the location of the first church is attached to the wall.

Architect James Wollon points out a similarity "in a country way" to the First Presbyterian Church of Baltimore at Park Avenue and Madison Street.

The gothic design church was constructed of granite from the neighboring Susquehanna hills and was officially opened on July 8, 1872.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This church was founded in 1837 when a meeting of local citizens interested in Presbyterianism decided that a church of that denomination was needed in their vicinity. The first church was located at Darlington and Glenville Roads not far from the present building. It was completed in October of 1837. Reverend William Finney, rector of the Churchville congregation conducted dedication services on October 13 of that year. The trustees elected at that time were Benjamin Silver, Jr; John H. Price, William Maxwell; Henry W. Archer; and William F. Bayless.

These trustees were outstanding citizens interested and active in many facets of the County Community. Benjamin Silver was involved in the organization of the Harford County Historical Society as well as being on the building Committee of the Churchville Presbyterian Church. Henry W. Archer, son of Dr. John Archer, Jr., owned the Rock Run Mill, was an incorporator of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Bel Air, and was a member of the Maryland Legislature in 1845. He was also a member of the Constitutional Convention in 1867. John H. Price was a lawyer who later became judge in the Judicial Circuit of Maryland. He was the step-son of William Wilson, an organizer of this church. William Wilson worked as a silver-smith in that area from 1781 until 1829; He was appointed tax assessor in 1798 by John Henry, Governor of Maryland. He was also a trustee of the Darlington Academy.

In 1867, plans were made for the construction of a new building. This is the present church.
