Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The main structure of 3 Edgewood Road is an early 20th century, vernacular, L-plan house with later additions. The property occupies a large lot north of the right-of-way for the Northeast Corridor. The property contains a house, the southernmost of three on the east side of the southern end of Edgewood Road; a modern, wood-framed, two bay, automobile repair garage; and a small shed.

In basic form, the house is an eaves front, wood-framed, three bay house with central cross gable and two story, gable-roofed rear ell. An enclosed hip-roofed front porch extends across the south-facing facade of the house. A two story, shed-roofed addition extends from the west wall of the south ell and breaks the eaves slope of the west eaves of the ell. The second story of this addition is slightly cantilevered over the first story. A shed-roofed, single story vestibule addition extends from the north wall of the main block along the east wall of the rear ell. The main block of the house is three bays wide and a single bay deep, while the ell is one bay wide and two bays deep.

The original portion of the house has a rubble foundation, while the additions have concrete foundations. The entire house is sheathed in cement-asbestos shingles, while the roof is sheathed in asphalt shingles. A brick chimney with corbeled cap projects from the intersection of the roof ridges of the main block and rear ell.

The front porch of the house has lower walls sheathed in cement-asbestos shingles and upper walls screened. A screen door is placed at the center of the porch and is reached by concrete steps. Additional doors are placed in the south bay of the rear addition and in the east wall of the shed-roofed rear vestibule. The house is fenestrated with double hung, sash windows set in a regular pattern. Those on the south facade are two over two, while a round arch-topped, two over two window is set in the central cross gable peak. Remaining fenestration consists primarily of a mixture of one over one and six over six, double hung, sash windows. Paired, six-light windows are placed to the left of the door in the west wall of the main rear addition.

The level yard is planted in mature trees and shrubs. Concrete walkways extend around the house's exterior and connect the house to the road and a driveway to its north. A modern, two bay, gable-roofed, wood-framed automobile repair garage is located east of the house. A modern, wood-framed shed is located south of the house. Both of these outbuildings were probably added within the past twenty years.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

3 Edgewood Road was one of several houses at the south end of Edgewood Road that were constructed in the early part of the 20th century. These houses may have been constructed in response to the development of the Edgewood Arsenal. The largest of three houses at the south end of Edgewood Road, this house may have been constructed for the owner of the parcel, while 7 and 9 Edgewood Road may have been constructed as tenant houses.

Like the neighboring 7 and 9 Edgewood Road, 3 Edgewood Road is situated on a portion of a 5 acre and 50 perch parcel that Sallie A. and Edward H. Tydings sold to Julius Hein in 1908 for $1,490 (Harford County Deed Book 125:19, May 30, 1908). This parcel had been sold to Thomas J. Tydings in 1880 by William P. Trimble, et al. (Harford County Deed Book 60:529, August 4, 1880). This .5 acre parcel has remained in Hein family ownership since 1908. Members of the family no longer live in the house. Instead, it is used as rental property.

The house is not shown on a 1920 aerial photograph of the Edgewood area in the collection of the Command Historian, U.S. Army Chemical and Biological Defense Command. It was presumably built shortly after. A vernacular dwelling that has been substantially altered, it lacks architectural significance. It has also not been closely associated with any individual or event significant in the history of the local community or Harford County.
