Description of Property and Eligibility Determination:

This frame multi-part structure, located at 3712 Wooddale Road and built ca. 1940, is a poorly maintained frame structure located on the west side of the road, north of I-95 near its intersection with MD 24. The project area is within a rapidly developing section of Harford County between the small crossroads village of Abingdon and Emmorton, densely populated areas to the south of Bel Air. The core of the unusual dwelling appears to be the small bungalow structure to the rear of a larger, two-story addition on the front, built on a concrete block foundation. All sections are clad with vinyl siding

The core of this structure is a variant on the mid twentieth century rambler style, popularized in the suburban sprawl which followed on the heels of the intense construction period necessitated by the needs of the soldiers returning from World War II to start families. It lacks significant architectural distinction and therefore would not meet the National Register criterion C. In addition, it has no known significant association with important persons or events, or would it likely have significant archeological associations because of its late construction date, thus it is not significant under Criteria A, B, or D for listing in the National Register.
