The William F. Bayless House is a good example of stonemasonry techniques of the early to mid-19th century in Harford County. Although not as elaborate or stylish as some of the neighboring Silver houses, the Bayless House has the solid, straightforward proportions of the prevailing local vernacular architectural tradition. William F. Bayless, the probable builder of the house, was one of the original five trustees of the Deer Creek Harmony Presbyterian Church, appointed in 1839. Bayless sold a small portion of his land to the trustees for the original church lot.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The William F. Bayless House is a two story stone house with stone and frame wings located about 1/4 mile southwest of Deer Creek Harmony Church (HA-165) near the intersection of Harmony Church Road and Darlington Road (Md Rt. 161). The house dates from the second quarter of the 19th century and the main section faces south.

The main section of the Bayless House is a two-story gable-roofed rubble-stone structure with a three-bay main elevation facing south. The entrance is in the west bay and has a simple frame with a rectangular transom. Two slate-sided dormers with gable roofs project from the slate roof on this elevation. The main section has a four-bay west elevation with the present main entrance in the north inner bay. This entrance has a small shed entry porch. The windows in the main section are six over six sash and most windows have louvred shutters. A datestone inscribed "1844" is located in the east gable.

Extending north from the main section is a two story stone wing, containing an interior end chimney on the north. This may be the oldest section of the house, following the common custom of building a small house and adding a larger and finer main section at a later time. The wing has a door in the two bay east elevation.

Adjoining the main section on the east is a smaller two-story frame wing with a shed porch on the south elevation.

The ruins of a small building, probably a tenant house, are located about 40 yards southeast of the Bayless House. All that is visible are a stone chimney stack and some stone debris. A barbed wire fence prevented closer observation.

The grounds adjacent to the Bayless House are landscaped and terraced with stone walls and steps. Although somewhat overgrown, the plan of a mid-20th century formal garden is evident.

About 50 yards west of the house is the main barn, a frame bank type with board and batten siding and a stone foundation. The metal roof appears to be a recent replacement. A small cupola tops the ridgeline.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The William F. Bayless House is a good example of stonemasonry techniques of the early to mid-19th century in Harford County. Although not as elaborate or stylish as some of the neighboring Silver houses, the Bayless House has the solid, straightforward proportions of the prevailing local vernacular architectural tradition. William F. Bayless, the probable builder of the house, was one of the original five trustees of the Deer Creek Harmony Presbyterian Church, appointed in 1839. Bayless sold a small portion of his land to the trustees for the original church lot.

HISTORY AND SUPPORT

The Bayless family obtained title to this tract in the first decade of the 19th century. Some type of house was undoubtedly built here during those first years, possibly on the site of the ruins near the present house or the section which is now north wing of the house. Rev. Samuel Bayless, the pastor of Deer Creek Harmony Church in 1870, was born May 5, 1810, "at the homestead near the church", according to the 1937 Centennial history of the church. On both the 1858 and 1878 maps of Harford County, two structures are shown on the site. In each case, the second house is occupied by a "Miss Bayless."

In the 1930's and 40's the farm was owned by Anna Merven Carrere, the daughter of John Carrere, the prominent New York architect.

NOTE: Original survey numbers HA-409 and 410 (Barn) are consolidated in this form.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS:

8. SIGNIFICANCE

(Further information on the Bayless House and family was discovered in the course of research in 1983 for the neighboring Silver Houses Historic District.)

Land tracts reproduced in B. S. Silver's genealogy Our Silver Heritage indicated that Benjamin Bayless and Samuel Bayless Jr. owned properties in the area of the present Harmony Church as early as 1770. These holdings may have included the site of the existing Bayless House.

The History of Deer Creek Harmony Presbyterian Church 1837-1972 states that Benjamin Silver, Jr. deeded to the trustees of the church the half-acre lot where the first church was erected. In 1871, Benjamin Silver's heirs and Benjamin Silver, Jr. deeded additional land adjoining the original lot for the erection of the present church.

Zephaniah Bayless, the father of William F., was also one of the organizers of Harmony Church and served along with his son on the building committee for the first church. Another son of Zephaniah was Samuel M. Bayless, who was the minister of Harmony Church from 1865 to 1873. The present church was erected during his pastorate. Samuel and William were born "at the old homestead near the church" in 1810 and 1814, respectively. The two brothers died in 1873.

The ruins near the 1844 stone house mentioned in Section 7 are probably those of the "homestead" of the Bayless family. Both the 1858 and 1878 maps of Harford County indicate the older house was still standing and occupied through the end of the 19th century.

Pleasantly landscaped, this farmhouse is an indication of the prosperity of farming in this area in the 1800's.

Country estate of a wealthy architect's daughter in the 30's & early 40's, who farmed the land with loving care, it is now abandoned as a farm and the house left alone at least 5 months out of the year in preference for Nantucket.
