DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This stone masonry church is similar to other churches in Harford County designed or built in the late nineteenth century. The high pitched, slate covered roof and tall tower were a popular feature of churches built in this era.

A unique feature is the rounded west wall, the end at which stands the altar. The main entrance of this church is on the east facade. The center entrance has double hung, paneled doors. An immense, semi-elliptical arch is above this doorway. The entrance is flanked by two circular, stained glass windows, each having a lancet shaped frame and an arch. In the center of the upper elevation of the east facade is a very ornate, three-part circular window. This also has a large stone arch in a lancet shape. (see sketch). A stone water table is on each wall. The stone tower on the southeast has a small window on the south. Turned posts form a belfry onto which is added a slate covered, conical roof.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The present church was completed in 1895 to provide ample room and greater facilities for the growing Catholic community in the Pylesville area. The church was begun under the pastorate of the Reverend Gerard B. Nysson and bears a datestone of 1890.

The history of this parish's existence is closely tied to that of the parish of St. Ignatius in Hickory.

The land on which this building and the former church stand was donated by Ignatius G. and Margaret Macatee in 1856 and 1870. The tract is known as Harry's Delight.

The Macatee family had long been active in the affairs of the Church and prior to the first church's construction had offered their home as a place of worship. The stone dwelling built by Henry Macatee on the family Belle Farm (HA-477) was often used for religious worship after its completion in 1820.

The original church was constructed in 1855, completed in 1856, during the tenure of Reverend J.A. Walter, pastor at St. Ignatius. In 1872 the church received its first resident pastor, Reverend Joseph A. Gallen.
