ABRAHAM JARRETT THOMAS HOUSE
Havre de Grace, Md.

Along with the Susquehanna and Tidewater Canal Lockhouse and the Concord Point Lighthouse, the Abraham Jarrett Thomas House, known as the Lafayette Hotel is the town's most prominent landmark. It is a large two and a half story five bay brick building built on a Georgian plan which has been covered with stucco. Situated on the west bank of the Susquehanna River, the building is on the site and perhaps the foundations of the old Ferry House, an inn run in conjunction with the old hand operated ferry boats.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Built in a Hangover Georgian style, 501 St. John Street is a large rectangular, detached two and a half story, five bay by one bay brick dwelling with a gable roof, possibly dating from the early 19th century. The building, now the Joseph L. Davis Post of the American Legion, is covered with textured stucco and has a one story cinder block addition on the rear. Located between the Susquehanna River and St. John Street, the building faces west toward Legion Square where there is a statue of Lafayette, commissioned for the town's Bicentennial celebration. Old photographs c. 1920 and 1930 show that the facade is Flemish bond while the flanks and rear are common bond. The foundations are random rubble covered with stucco.

A one story, three bay porch with pillars resting on a cement floor extends across the entire facade supporting a hipped roof.

Windows are arranged uniformly on the facade; on all elevations they have 9/1 light, double hung sash within recessed jambs. A c. 1930 photograph shows that the windows on the facade and south elevation have flat arches above them and stone sills and lintels. While there are three windows on the first floor, south elevation today, the 1930 photograph shows only one window slightly off center with the window sash within a deeply recessed opening. Third floor gable end windows contain 6/1 light sash as do the three front and two rear dormers.

The main entrance is in the center bay of the facade; it is framed by pilasters supporting an entablature with a plain frieze. The door contains fifteen raised panels. Other entrances are in the cinder block addition.

The building has a gable flank roof, covered with asphalt shingles, a narrow box cornice and a wide molded fascia board on the facade and rear. All of the dormers have recessed triangular pediments. Pairs of connected end chimneys rise from the north and south walls; like the rest of the building, they are covered with stucco.

Interior: The first floor has one room on either side of a center hall. The stairs rising to the third floor are on the south wall of the hall. The windows framed by architrave molding are deeply recessed with wide inner sills. The band of molding under the window sills a rectangular panel is in the center. Six panel doors are found through out the house. The American Legion has a Ratnskeller in the basement, a large cooking fireplace with an arched opening is on the north wall of the rear room. There was another large fireplace in the adjoining room but it has been bricked up.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Abraham Jarrett Thomas House is a two and a half story, five bay brick dwelling with a Flemish bond facade-now covered with stucco. The building and the river front lot on which it is located figure prominently in the Town's history. The early growth of the settlement known as Harmerstown, Stocketts town, Susquehanna Lower Ferry and finally Havre de Grace was determined by its location on the Susquehanna River and the upper Chesapeake Bay. Here, travelers following the Old Post Road-the major Colonial route between the south and Philadelphia crossed the Susquehanna River by ferry. Among the early ferry operators was John Rodgers, who secured a license in 1776 to operate an "ordinary" at Havre de Grace. Rodgers who bought a lot on S. Washington Street (HA-798) in 1788 on which a dwelling-beleived to have been built before 1800 stands today, is better known as the (c.1780) <sup>PROPRIETOR</sup> of Rodger's Tavern across the river where George Washington was a frequent vistore and as the father of Commodore John Rodgers, the founder of the American Navy. Although the exact location of the tavern run by John Rodgers in Havre de Grace is not known, it is logical to assume that it may have stood on this site, particularly since we know from the land records that this land was deeded to the Havre de Grace Ferry Co. in 1818 by William B. Stokes. In 1834 the land, comprising 11 lots, was sold to Abraham Jarrett Thomas, for whom the present structure was probably erected, although the basement may be earlier. A.J. Thomas was a banker and an early member of St. John's Church (HA-544). Stevenson Archer Williams in his "Recollections of Boyhood At Medical Hall etc.." mentions that the Lafayette Hotel was the Abraham Jarrett Thomas house when he was a boy. The Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railway later known as the Baltimore and Washington Railway purchased the property in 1856 and the building was run as the Lafayette Hotel until shortly before it became the Post 49, American Legion headquarters in 1947.

Those who pass through Havre de Grace on the train often remark on the sight of the old building with the large chimneys on the river front. The mass of the building is similar to the Wollon Doublehouse (HA-835) a smaller dwelling built in an Overhang Georgian style with large double interior end chimneys. Only four buildings in Havre de Grace have Flemish bond brickwork, The A.J. Thomas House being one of them although covered with stucco. The size of the house (aprox. 40' x 30') makes it unusual as does the presence of a large cooking fireplace in thebasement. The building deserves further structural investigation.
